

EUGENE SCHILLER IS DEAD AT BEAVERTON

Sustained Stroke of Heart Failure in Smoke House, Found by Miller
HAD JUST LIGHTED FIRE IN BUILDING
Dead Man was Thorough Civil Engineer and had Done Much Surveying

Eugene Schiller, a civil engineer and surveyor, was found breathing his last in his smoke house by Thos. Miller, Saturday morning. Miller was passing the Schiller home, a mile east of Beaverton, when he noticed a dense smoke coming from the building. He entered and found Schiller prostrate on the floor. The fire had been kindled, evidently with the purpose of smoking some meat. Schiller probably sustained the stroke just after he had applied the match. He died a few minutes after the arrival of Mr. Miller, who notified Undertaker Pegg, who in turn notified Coroner Hyde. Schiller was well known in the east end of the county, and also at Oregon City, where he resided and surveyed many years. He leaves a widow and one son. He was aged about 65 years, and has had some trouble with his heart for several years.

A. E. Scott is again associated with J. P. Hurley in the publication of the News-Times. It's mighty hard for a newspaper man to stay out of the game.

Peter Jacobsen, West Union, was in town Saturday, attending the agricultural meeting. His son, Jas. H., is one of the boys cited to appear for physical examination, Nov. 9.

John Lippert, of Banks, was a Hillsboro caller Monday, enroute home from Portland. He says that the wells are lower in supply up in the hills than in the history of the section.

Saturday's dispatches say that the Oregon boys are again together in some Eastern camp. The North Carolina contingent has been moved North and met with the last entrainment from Clackamas. This begins to look like the Third Oregon will soon be sent across to France or Italy.

J. B. McNew, of above Buxton, came down Monday to circuit court. He says the Standard Box shut down a few days ago for lack of water, running their planers only—a condition not known up there for years. The recent rains may soon raise their pond enough to give them water for running.

Sheriff Applegate Sunday picked up a Studebaker machine which had been parked in the west end of town on Baseline, and took charge of it. Telephoning to Portland he found that it had been stolen from V. D. Harris, who came out and took charge of his property. Some one evidently wanted a cheap ride to Hillsboro and impressed the auto into service.

FARMERS ORGANIZE PERMANENT COUNCIL

County Agriculturist Calls Meeting and Business Session
YEAR'S WORK OUTLINED SATURDAY
Work of Utmost Importance Taken up By Farmers

Representatives of about twelve communities and representing as many organizations met at the County Court House in Hillsboro, Saturday, Nov. 3, to organize a County Agricultural Council. Paul V. Maris, State Leader of County Agents, from the Oregon Agricultural College, was present and explained the organization and duties of the council. He also gave outlines of work that might be taken up in the county. After the plan was presented and discussed a committee on permanent organization was appointed by the chairman, Wm. Schulmerich.

The committee reported after the noon recess, and the permanent organization was perfected, electing officers as follows:

President, Wm. Schulmerich; vice president, A. E. Wescott; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Clara R. Beck.

The council will act as an advisory board to the County Agriculturist and is composed of representatives from the several agricultural organizations in the county. Communities not having organizations will also be allowed representation according to plans made by the Council at this meeting.

Outlines of activities undertaken by other counties were presented by Mr. Maris, and additional ones were named that might be of interest in this county. Members of the council also named a number of problems that should receive consideration.

From the large number suggested the council decided on the following as being of vital importance to the county and should receive special consideration.

1 Field Crop Demonstrations. This will include variety tests of crops decided upon by local committees, fertilizer tests, crop rotations, etc.

2 Canada Thistle Control. The spread of this weed is becoming so serious that special work for its control was believed necessary.

3 Dairy Cattle Feeding. The dairymen in the council considered that the high prices of feed raised new problems in feeding which should receive special study.

4 Dairy Show. In keeping with the dairy importance of the county, plans for an educational dairy show are to be perfected.

5 Monthly Exchange List. Farmers desiring seed, stock, implements, etc., or having these articles for sale will be requested to list their wants with the County Agriculturist who will see to the publication of same.

6 Potato Seed Certification. "Washington County Seed Potatoes Grown in Washington County," will be undertaken in this project, and to insure good quality the seed must come up to the standards of certification.

7 Mole and Gopher Control. Organized effort is necessary to rid the farms of these rodents, it was decided by the Council.

8 Plant and Animal Diseases. As the name indicates organized effort will be made to control infectious plant and animal diseases prevalent in the county.

Other problems will also receive consideration, but these in the opinion of the council were of special importance.

The need of the Government to have organized Agriculture at this time was recognized by the council, and the plan to extend County Agricultural work to all Agricultural counties was endorsed. It was also the opinion of the Council that Washington County would take no backward step in this regard and that the movement should receive unanimous support.

Delegates were present as follows:

- Ferd Groner.....Scholls
- Frank C. Fluke.....Kinton

The Gas Company is hammering away to get their mains into Forest Grove, and connected up before the real bad weather starts in.

The Great Northern Express Co. has an auto service for the benefit of its patrons. The car is a Ford and it does the business, besides being labelled so plainly that "he who runs may read."

C. E. Wells, W. G. Hare and Jack Raynard returned from the Nestucca last Friday night, after a fine fishing expedition. W. G. caught a 25 pounder the day they left, and the trio landed 14 big fellows in one stretch of fishing.

John Engledinger this week built a small storehouse for Sheriff Applegate in his private office and it will be under lock. The apartment is used for the "liquor evidence" which has accumulated, and it also has a gunrack for the firearms turned in by aliens over the county.

Fred E. Cornelius, C. E. Koontz, Cal Jack and J. L. Crow departed yesterday for a week of fishing on the Nehalem. They will camp at the cabin of Mr. Crow, who will furnish the war yarns. Fred will supply the sorrow, Koontz the appetite, and Jack—well he will probably furnish the usual fisherman's fortune.

The county court has just finished a neat job on the Dairy Creek bridge, a mile west of Hillsboro. The span has been eliminated and long stringers run from bank to bank, on piling. The width of the substitute is the same as that of the rest of the bridge, and the appearance of the driveway is more than improved.

B. Co.'s Mascot, the little black bear, is making Hillsboro his headquarters for the winter. The cub was picked up at North Yakima by Private Dillon, and brought down here with the intent of taking him East, and then across. The youngster was not permitted to be aboard the train and Dillon sent him out here. The cub is some homesick for the boys in Khaki, and it was several days before he quit his crying.

The first real break of the dry season came last Friday. Saturday night witnessed a little shower, but not enough to wet under the dust crust. By nightfall, Friday, Pluvius brought up his reserves and there was a soaking rain. Strange enough the first 24 hours of the precipitation was "spotted." Farmers who had sowed fall grain were glad to get the moisture, and those who yet have much plowing to do were also giving thanks. So far there is about 50 per cent. as much fall sown grain as last year's acreage.
