Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Rhea, of Milton, Ore., have been visiting with T. A. Rhea and wife the past week. Jim tells a great story about a friend of his up at Winona, Wash., whose swineherd presented him with a really and truly blind youngster. Chris Schaffer was the owner of pigs, and his hired man, Henry Jansen, casually told a friend that he had a "blind pig." The friend had a thirst, and taking Henry at his word, followed him for two days, in the hopes of getting a drink. After the joke commenced to pall on the hired man he took the friend out to the barn and showed him the blind porker, and there came near being a fatality. The friend appreciated a joke, but thought that there was such a thing as carrying it too far.

BEAVERTON-REEDVILLE ROUTE, STATE HIGHWAY

The State Highway Commission Votes Unanimously to get Route

NORTH OF THE S. P. TRACK

Runs From City Park Almost due East to Bertha

The State Highway Commission has rescinded its former vote to make the Walker-Orengo route the Pacific Highway in Washington County, and last week decided by unanimous vote to build the proposed highway into this section via Bertha, the Beaverton-Bertha road, as far as Beaverton, thence west along the north side of the Southern Pacific Railroad track. A fill will be made at St. Mary's, and from there the road shoots due west to Huber, Aloha and Reedville, confining on to join the Witch Hazel road. Arriving near the Witch Hazel school the road goes straight on to Rock Creek, and then on to the Meier place, this side of Newton.

This means that a bridge will be made to be put in at Rock Creek, and there will be considerable grading. The county will put in the grade and drainage, and it is estimated that the bridging and grading, with the drainage, will cost about ten thousand dollars.

The county does not furnish the base as was popularly supposed. This contention has been disposed of by the State Commission, which has passed a resolution that the counties will not have to supply base.

The Orengo people are naturally feeling pretty much disappointed over the outcome of the road location.

Beaverton and Reedville people, together with Aloha and Huber, have been hustling for some time, and it is said that they have made arrangements for the right of way on the new line, thus relieving the commission from a big expense.

Commissioner Benson wrote the county court here that the decision was made last week.

LOUISE OLIVEREAU IS FOUND GUILTY

Former Hillsboro Abstractor is Guilty on Nine Counts, Seattle

CONVICTED IN FED. COURT

Charged With Violation of Espionage Law, Pleads Own Case

Miss Louise OliverEAU, a former Hillsboro woman, having worked here over a year some time ago, was found guilty on nine counts in the Seattle Federal Court, Jeremiah Neterer, Judge, Friday. Miss OliverEAU had sent out letters, 2,000 in number, advising all to resist the registration law for the selective draft. Miss OliverEAU wanted anything but obedience to the Federal statute, and she wanted even bloodshed to prevent the war.

When she went into court she was asked if she had an attorney. She replied in the negative and said she would plead her own case. Her first remark in outlining her defense was, "First, I want to say to you jurors that I am an anarchist." Then the jurors started to get out of the box and leave the court room. The Court ordered them back to their seats and told them that the woman had a right to her say even if her words did profane their sense of citizenship.

The jury was out twenty minutes when they returned with the conviction on all nine counts as found by the Federal Grand Jury. Miss OliverEAU worked here as an abstractor for well-known firm. She did her work thoroughly, but her animadversions on law and order were such that the firm found it convenient to let her go. She kept house here, but did not make extensive acquaintance. She had rather a poor opinion of the women in general and felt that the laws all needed turning topsy turvy—in fact she held that we would be better off if we would have no law at all. Her bond has been raised to $7000 pending her sentence and she is in charge of the Seattle United States marshal.

His life was merciful, generous and charitable, and his death, though regrettable, was yet consoling in that it ended a life well spent and work well done. May his soul rest in peace. Committee.
