

BOYS TRAINING IN NAVY LOOK FOR ARGUS

John Trachsel Writes Argus of Life at Mare Island—Says Fine THE STATE REPRESENTED

Tells of how Washington's Birthday was Celebrated in Camp

John Trachsel, in training at the Mare Island Naval Training Station, under date of March 7, writes the Argus—John is well known in the northeastern part of the county, and formerly lived at Helvetia:

"I am sure pleased to get the home paper, and we Hillsboro boys flock around it as boys do when they see their first circus."

Oregon is well represented in camp, and we all hope to help get the Kaiser's goat. Some of us may soon be on the way to France, or all hope to.

February 22 was a great day here. We had boat racing, tug-of-war and boxing, and the band played some of the latest numbers, and Uncle Sam gave us a fine turkey dinner which we all enjoyed, and we hope to do something in return. We are all getting along splendidly with the exception of myself—have had a little case of the grippe, but am feeling better now, and expect to be on the shores of good health in a few days.

Every man in camp has received an identification tag with name, date of enlistment, and date of birth, and we all wear them on a cord around our necks.

We would like to send you some of the fine sunshine here, as we know you would enjoy it during the long winter months in Oregon, but that is impossible. We trust these few lines, telling of the fine shape we are in will be a sort of a substitute.

Yours Very Truly,
John Trachsel.

A little incident happened last week in county court showing the value of keeping books. The Judge has since 1916 been keeping a record of the minutest road expenditures in the various districts, and a bill was recently put in for 90 cents for some stuff for road use furnished nearly two years ago. The bill, being very ancient, caused some speculation and the man who presented it admitted a postscript saying he was not sure of his ground, but that it was not settled. The court at once turned to his set of books, and in a half minute found that a warrant had been drawn for the service over 18 months ago.

Single Comb White Minorca eggs for sale for hatching. Frogs pens that score above 90. TEACHERS MET AT SHERWOOD SATURDAY

Fine Reception and Dinner Given Pedagogues

BONHAM'S SCHOOL WINNER

Teacher and Every Pupil are War Savers and Purchasers

The teachers had a fine meeting at Sherwood, Saturday, March 9. State Supt. Churchill made a fine talk on high schools, and one on the course of study for grades. Mr. Maris, State Industrial Club worker, was present and told of the value of that and plans for its promotion. Prof. Patten's address on "Play," and Miss Wood's class demonstration were of especial practical value. There was considerable interest in the discussion of the effect of the extra war work on the regular work of the schools. This was led by Prof. Reinemer and Mrs. Dow. The work in reading, history, geography and composition seems to be helped and other subjects not hindered by the interest in the war work. The people of Sherwood gave the teachers a cordial reception and a fine dinner.

Mr. Maris is working Washington county this week and next and will visit as many schools as possible in the interest of the industrial work.

Wm. B. Jolly, pioneer of 1847 came out from Portland Friday and while making the rounds in the business section called on the religious journal. Mr. Jolly has put 71 years in the Oregon and California country, and he can remember when the Spaniards came to Oregon with pack burros to take flour down to the miners. Talk about "white bread" in these times, says Mr. Jolly, to the Argus, "wheat was worth 50 bucks per those days and people never thought of kicking." His father, Rev. Wm. Jolly, took up a donation claim of 725 acres a few miles north of Hillsboro on the present North Plains road, and was prominent among the state's pioneers.
