THE TRUTH ABOUT CANDY

HOW MUCH CANDY CAN WE EAT?

"WHERE SHALL WE STOP TO STAY WITHIN THE BOUNDS OF PATRIOTISM?"

That's a question which puzzles many of us.

We all know that we must "go easy" on sugar, as it is our duty to conserve.

And candy contains some sugar.

So how can we know how much to eat.

In the first place, we must not forget that our system needs some sugar, and this the Food Administration recognizes.

We must remember, too, that some people like their sugar in coffee, some in fruit and some in other ways. If you like yours in the form of candy, eat some candy—as much as the Food Administration permits—a certain share is yours.

The Food Administration is keeping in close touch with the sugar situation and allotting the candy manufacturers as much as it can see its way clear to allot.

Everyone is being asked to save on sugar, and the candy manufacturers have been asked to save half as much as they formerly used.

But that which is being given them is being given them because the Food Administration recognizes candy as a food and is willing to permit it to be made and sold. It also knows that the candy making industry is a big national industry and that it is the duty of everyone to help keep industries going at home at the same time that we are winning the war.

So the candy manufacturers are permitted to make a certain amount of candy and offer it for sale to you. But the Food Administration says how much that will be. When the sugar is used up, no more can be had. So you know that the candy you see on sale is there with the permission and the sanction of the Food Administration. And that candy you can enjoy to the fullest. And while you eat it, or send it away to a soldier, if you prefer, you may know that every pound is high in food value—good, wholesome food, supplying the system with carbohydrates (fuel for the body).

In normal times the sugar industry uses only 8 per cent of the sugar used per capita in this country. Right now this amount has been cut squarely in two.
