Authorities give the Washington County winter wheat situation at 99 per cent, and this looks good. The one per cent. is due to low ground sowing, where water drowned out some of the grain. As the acreage in the county is fully fifty per cent. greater than last season this has a very pleasing prospect. Yamhill county appears to have a better per cent. of conditions, but their yield is never as heavy as down here. The exceptionally large per cent. accredited them is due to the fact that there is so much rolling ground and inundation is hardly known. But when old Washington rolls in her crop at from 30 to 40 bushels per it counts up.
