HILLSBORO, OREGON, AUGUST 21, 1919

NO. 24

COUNTY SERVICE MAN CLUBS "HARD-BOILED"

Used Butt of Musket on Notorious "Hard-Boiled Smith"

LIEUT. TORE UP A PHOTO

And Started Something—Soldier Was Acquitted at Trial

"Hard-Boiled Smith," the Lieutenant who is now scoring unenviable fame in the investigations of his cruelty ran up against the wrong man when he went up against a Washington County man in the person of Grant Dorland, of beyond North Plains. The result was that Dorland knocked down "Hard-Boiled" with the butt of a musket, was court martialled and acquitted, the acquittal being due to witnesses who were present and saw the incident.

Dorland is a brother of J. H. Dorland, of Shady Brook, is a quiet, reserved sort of fellow, and only thro accident the story leaked out. Dorland was one of the guards at the U. S. Military prison, about twenty miles from Paris, and he had in his possession a list of the prisoners who were not allowed to leave the stockade. "Hard Boiled" came out where Dorland was standing guard and asked for the list. He pulled the list from his pocket and in doing so accidentally pulled a photo from his pocket. "Hard Boiled" grabbed the photo and tore it to bits. For some reason or other Dorland valued that photo—it came from a little hamlet in this county—and for a second he forgot that Lieut. Smith was an officer. It was just a case of one man and another man, and the man with the bars was loser, for he went down like a slab. Dorland reversed his musket and caught Mr. "Hard Boiled" with the butt, scoring a clean knock-down. "Hard Boiled" had Dorland arrested and tried at court martial. There were too many witnesses to the incident and Dorland was acquitted, the court martial holding that "Hard Boiled" transcended his authority when he tore up the photo.

Dorland says that the Lieutenant will fight shy of meeting any men who were under his command, for they all despised him for his cruelty and more than one would like to get a crack at the end of his chin.

Dorland says that he has heard Smith say "They call me 'Hard Boiled' Smith, and I am hard boiled." Smith was cruel for cruelty's sake, and Dorland says that he credits any story that tells of Smith's actions if they smack of injustice or tyranny.

OTTO BROSE WILL BUILD GASTON SECTOR

County Given Contract to Lay Several Miles of Macadam

STATE GIVES CO. WORK

Bid of County Commissioners Away Under Other Bidders

Washington County has been given the award to grade and macadamize 6.7 miles from Forest Grove's city limits to the Yamhill County line, and the work has already started. Otto Brose, the Timber road builder having been put in charge of construction. The county put in a bid with the provision that the State Commission must furnish the motor trucks to transport the rock, and with that there will be clear sailing. This bid was put in because the work must be done this Fall, or the residents of that district will be marooned. The county already has a quarry on the Nel Johnson place and another is now being installed where the Seroggin Valley road connects with the State Highway.

The State Highway Commission will probably next season cover the base with bitulithite, as the present road is for temporary purposes only. The new arrangement does away with the possibility of laying cement on that particular sector. The Portland report of the letting of the contract, which was signed this week, is as follows:

In bidding on a macadam road job, the Washington County court submitted a bid Thursday which is approximately one-half the price asked by the Warren Construction Company. The two were the only bidders. The job is for the construction of 6.7 miles on the Forest Grove-Gaston section of the Forest Grove-McMinnville highway in Washington County.

The Warren Construction Company based its bid on shipping rock or gravel from Portland, explaining that if local gravel can be obtained a reduction will be made in the bid. The county bid is based on the condition that the state highway commission furnish trucks to transport material.

Bids, which were referred to the engineer, were as follows:

Warren Construction Company, 1500 lineal feet porous drain tile, 6-inch, 45 cents per foot; 100 cubic yards gravel, $5.37 per cubic yard; 15,500 cubic yards screen gravel macadam, $6.17 per cubic yard; 600 cubic yards clay or other earth filler, $1.50 per cubic yard.

Washington County court—1500 feet 6-inch drain tile, 12 cents per foot; 100 cubic yards broken stone, $2.75 per yard; 15,500 cubic yards broken stone or run-of-bank gravel, $2.75 per yard; 600 cubic yards clay or other earth filler, 75 cents per yard.

County Clerk H. A. Kuratli and family have been spending a few days over in Lincoln County, making the trip overland.

Lost—Nobby Tread auto tire, No. 114,651,531T. Reward. Finder please leave at Argus office. 23-25

Up near Cornelius the other day a woman was the occasion of stopping a threshing crew. The separator men were rushing to beat the band, trying to get to the next sitting, when a woman came running across the field, demanding that they stop the machine instanter. The engineer thought something was radically wrong and turned off the engine. The woman then explained that her husband wanted to hitch up his horse and the equine wouldn't stand as long as the separator was running so close by. The owner of the horse hitched up without getting the silence wished as the separator was started without delay.

SOUTHERN COTTON COMES

First to be Shipped Out of Columbia for Years

Portland—Pacific Steamship Co. will buy four 9500-ton steamers from government for permanent Portland-Oriental service soon as shipping board defines policy as to sale of such carriers. "We are following advice of John H. Rosseter, director of operation of shipping board, to prepare to buy government steamers when policy of shipping is defined," says A. F. Haines, vice-president and general manager of Pacific Steamship Co. "The vessels being operated across Pacific are proving their worth and demonstrating fact that they can be made to pay. We have locked cotton on every steamer sailing from Portland from August up to the opening of 1920, and that is the first cotton to move through Portland in years. The line is permanent, without question, and with assurance that we can depend on four of the 9500-ton ships to maintain it, I feel that if Portland will lend us its support there need be no worries as to the future."

THAT SPECIAL SESSION

Salem, Ore., Aug. 14.—(Special)—William G. Hare, representative from Washington County, is unable to perceive the necessity of calling a special session of the state legislature to ratify the woman's suffrage amendment to the federal constitution, according to a letter received from him at the executive offices today.

"However, should your judgment direct you to call an extra session for the sole purpose of considering not to exceed one or two measures, I am willing to attend without cost to the state," continued Mr. Hare.

"Permit me to suggest, however, that in my opinion, before an extra session is called, some understanding should be arrived at with respect to its duration. Like a great majority of the members of the legislature, I am busily engaged, and while I am willing to devote a day or so to the service of the state, I do not care to be entertained by long speeches, a part of which will evidently be made for political purposes only."—Telegram.
