

SILO NECESSARY FOR DAIRYING

Expense Returns to Builder in Single Season

CLOVER MAKES FOR SILAGE

Potato Blight Appearing. Another Mole Pool is Set

A large number of Washington County dairymen have found that the silo is not only an advantage to the dairy business, but is absolutely necessary for successful dairying. Several have stated that their silos were doubly paid for in one season, and others state that they would quit dairying if they had to do it without a silo. While an enthusiast in a neighboring county states that the only silo that does not pay is the one that the dairyman has in mind but never builds.

The yield of corn this year may cut down the number of silos that would probably have been built, but it is not yet too late to plan the erection of a silo and get it filled with some green crop. Clover makes a fair grade of silage and is much to be preferred over no silage at all. This material can, therefore, be used to advantage if it be found that the corn crop is going to be short or that other materials will not be available. Another material which has been wasted can be utilized by a limited number of farmers is apple pomace. The material has been found to compare very favorably with corn silage in feeding tests made on the farms.

Potato Blight

There has been some evidence of potato blight in the county this season and there may be more during the early fall. Two types of blight are prevalent, the early and late blights. The former is more prevalent during rainy seasons and for that reason has not been common this year; the late blight, however, seems to prefer drier weather and we may expect the disease this fall. In either case there is usually sufficient warning where the vines are noticed to get the disease in control by proper spraying.

The spary to use is Bordeaux Mixture 4-4-50 strength. In some cases in the Willamette Valley even though blight was not very noticeable the application of this spray was found to give increased yields so that the cost of spraying was made up in the returns even though the fields were not badly attacked.

Mole Pelt Pool

Another mole pelt pool will be held August 25th to 30th. This will be the last pool of pelts until about the middle of December, as the moles undergo a change of fur from about the middle of September until the latter part of November, and the pelts are, therefore, of little value during that period.

ROAD PROSPECTS

The Warren Construction Company, which has the contract of putting down in the bitulithic on the Forest Grove-Hillsboro six miles will start work this fall, contrary to the reports that have been circulating for some time. Their man in charge says that it will take them 50 days to prepare the roadbed and lay the hard surface, and they are under bond to finish the work by November 1. With the cement road completed between here and Beaverton by Fall, and with work progressing on the Beaverton-Multnomah ends of the line in two places, the people of Washington County will bid fair to have at least some chances of getting into the Rose City by the first of November without grief.

Even if the east end is not all completed there will be but a mile or so of rough travel, and that will not be so bad, after all these years of bumps and pot-holes.

The Forest Grove-Gaston end will have an 18-foot macadam road for the winter, and this will certainly help.

Al E. McCumsey, of North Plains, lost his residence and contents by fire last Saturday evening, about 6:30 o'clock, the fire catching from a gasoline stove. The family saved only a sewing machine and a table. There was $600 insurance on the house and $300 on the contents, carried by the London & Lancashire, John Vanderwal, Agent. Mr. Vanderwal adjusted the loss Monday, and paid Mr. McCumsey his check yesterday, which is rapid work.

He was progressive and was the first here to realize the value of horticulture, being the pioneer in Loganberry culture. He established his own cannery, made the business a study and was last year elected to take care of the Forest Grove big cannery.

Modest and unassuming, he made friends to hold them, and he will be missed by a large circle of friends and fraternalists.

Of his immediate family he is survived by a brother, Warren Williams, of near Mountaine, and a sister, Mrs. Jamie Sewell, widow of the late J. W. Sewell.

Ben Cummings, aged about 34 years, was instantly killed Wednesday, August 20, at the right of way camp for the Wilkesboro-Vernonia railway, near Buxton. Cummings was falling timber, when a large stub fell on him. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Cummings, who for many years have been residents of that section. Cummings was a bachelor, and was very popular in his section.

Those taking flights yesterday were R. E. McCormick, from Portland here; Thos. H. Tongue Jr., Paul Bailey, C. B. Buchanan, Harold Briggs, J. W. Bailey, Chas. Buchanan, Edward Wall, Paul J. Tews, and J. H. Garrett. Those who have taken the flight say that it is an experience they would not forego for ten times the money expended.

The Oregon Aircraft Transportation Co. owns the plane, and they are making flights all over the Northwest. Lt. Pearson is a competent air man, and there is no danger attached to the trip.

PROMINENT PYTHIAN PASSED AWAY SUNDAY

Frank J. Williams Succumbs to Illness, at Portland, Aug. 17th

AN ESTEEMED NATIVE SON

Laid to Rest by Pythians and Pythian Sisters, Tuesday

Frank J. Williams, native son and prominent Pythian, died in Portland Sunday evening, about 7:00 o'clock. Mr. Williams had been going to Portland for medical treatment, never having fully recovered from an attack of typhoid fever, sustained last year. The sons were notified early Sunday morning that the father was sinking and they left their Forest Grove home to join their mother, who was then at the bedside. The end came after a day of watching.

Frank J. Williams

Native Son and K. of P.

Frank J. Williams was born a mile east of Hillsboro, Feb. 19, 1867, and spent all his life here with the exception of a few months of residence at Forest Grove. He was the son of the late Samuel and Eliza Williams, both Oregon pioneers. He was married to Miss Maude Imbrie, daughter of the late Robert Imbrie and wife of near Oreon, July 8, 1894, and the widow and two sons, Elmer and Ralph, survive.

He became a member of the Knights of Pythias February 12, 1894, and in the quarter of a century had never been in default of paid membership, and at death was entitled to the Veteran Jewel.

He was a member of the Uniform Rank, as well, serving as Captain for some time, and was a charter member of the Pythian Sisters, having charge of the drill team.

The funeral took place Tuesday afternoon at 2:30, from the Donelson Undertaking Parlors, under the auspices of the two Pythian orders. Rev. J. T. Anderson delivered the funeral sermon, and the flowers were beautiful, the Pythian and Pythian Sisters offerings being symbolic of the orders.

The singing was by the Pythian trio, Dr. L. W. Hyde, Russell Morgan and Dr. E. T. Helms.

The pall bearers were E. L. Moore, L. A. Long, J. D. Anderson, August Tews, W. N. Harris and Alfred Morgan.

The services at the cemetery were under the auspices of the Pythian Sisters and the ritualistic lines were beautiful and impressive.

Frank J. Williams was the soul honor and his broadmindedness and genial good nature made him a host of friends. His sense of right and wrong was more than acute, and if he ever wronged a person it was unwittingly. He was popular with his fellows, and he was a believer in punctuality and friendship—two things he considered wonderfully worth while. As a husband and father he was the last word in faithfulness, and his home life was model.

He was progressive and was the first here to realize the value of horticulture, being the pioneer in Loganberry culture. He established his own cannery, made the business a study and was last year elected to take care of the Forest Grove big cannery.

Modest and unassuming, he made friends to hold them, and he will be missed by a large circle of friends and fraternalists.

CHESTER CLARK GETS AWAY FROM THE PEN

Takes French Leave of the State While at Work Outside

BANK ROBBER IS FUGITIVE

Robbed Bank of $3800; Fled to Los Angeles; Caught; Fled Again

Chester Clark, a Forest Grove boy, broke from the guard at Salem while he was working in the fields, and made his getaway one day last week. Official search has been in vain and Clark is still at large. Clark robbed over $3800 in June, and fled from the town in a Chevrolet. He made Portland via the Cornell road, then crossed to Clark County, Washington, went to California with his wife, and located at Los Angeles. Clark was arrested as the outcome of a letter written by his wife wherein she told of the many nice things the husband had bought her. The father-in-law, who suspected Clark, notified the officers and he was arrested, confessed, and brought here for trial. Clark pleaded before Judge Geo. R. Bagley, and was given an indeterminate sentence and taken to Salem by Sheriff George Alexander.

It is asserted by some that Clark has disguised himself as a woman and that he is clear out of the country.

The officers are watching the actions of Mrs. Clark, and are hoping to locate him through her. Clark is yet in his twenties, but has had a varied career as a criminal, having served time before the last escape.

Taken up—Sow and six shoats. Owner is required to prove property, pay for keep and adv., and take them away.—W. J. Gregg, Hillsboro, Route 3, near Leisyville. 24-27

Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Bergen, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Applegate and Miss Ethel Bergen departed Saturday for a trip to Canada, taking the same route taken by Messrs. Garrett and Holzngel a few weeks ago. They are making the trip in W. V.'s car and will be gone several weeks.

Rev. J. T. Anderson will soon leave for Coos Bay to enter Evangelistic work for the Baptist State organization. Mr. Anderson will go aboard a cruiser which plies at all ports of Coos Bay, and he will make his home on the boat. Rev. Anderson has been a resident of Hillsboro for twenty months, and has made many friends here. He has left his impress on the church, and the members of the congregation regret the departure. He also made a host of friends outside the church during his stay.

Harry G. Guild, of Hillsboro, and Mrs. Marjorie L. DeWeese, of Spokane, Wash., were united in marriage at Vancouver, Wash., August 12, 1919, Rev. M. F. Thompson, of the First M. E. Church officiating. The groom is well known here, and is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Guild. He is at present with the Oregon Journal. The bride has been employed as book keeper for the Union Printing Co., of Spokane, and her parents are pioneer residents of the Spokane section, where she has a wide acquaintance.

The newly married couple will locate here or in Yamhill County, to be decided later. At present they are visiting at the H. G. Guilds.

HELMING—CRABTREE

William Helming and Miss DeLaurice Crabtree were united in marriage at Portland, August 16, 1919, Rev. Brinkman officiating, the ceremony being performed at the Lutheran study. The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Crabtree, of Laurel, and is deservedly popular there and at Hillsboro. She is a talented musician, and has many friends here and in Washington County. The groom is a bright young business man of the Rose City, and the couple have known each other for many years. They will reside in Portland and be at home to their friends after September 1.

WAS THIS JAMISON?

A county agent in one of the States believes in diversified activities. He reports as follows for one month's work: "Burnt up 90 gallons of gasoline, 5 quarts of oil, had 6 punctures and one blow-out. Trailer broke away and upset load; pig fell out of the car and was caught with difficulty, afterwards jumped from sky and was run over by an auto. Buried three pigs with all the profits and lost $28 besides. Tore best trousers getting over pasture fence; broke watch crystal loading corn planter; but outside of a few minor troubles had a very satisfactory month's work."
