

CO. HEALTH OFFICER WRITES ABOUT FLU

Gives Suggestions as to Personal Action

GIVE BODY PROPER CARE

Follow Paragraphs of Advice and You'll be Repaid

County Health Officer, Dr. L. W. Hyde, sends the press the following letter about the influenza, or "flu," as it is commonly called: "The history of influenza, 'flu,' 'grippe,' Spanish influenza," all meaning the same disease, shows that an epidemic is followed frequently by a repetition of the same disease after many months. Last Winter there was a severe epidemic throughout the world, and well known and studious men of science look for a repetition this year of the same disease. This may or may not come in milder form. It is a very treacherous and serious disease, being often rapidly fatal, though considered to be light at the beginning.

There are a few suggestions for prevention that have been helpful in the past, and following the practice of health officers in other parts of the country, the following is submitted for the public to act on.

Influenza ("Flu") destroyed as many lives as did the World War.

1. Be personally clean, bathing as often as is necessary to keep the body healthy. This should be at least twice a week.
2. Keep the house clean of dirt, garbage, dirty clothing or old rags and damp, bad smelling corners.

3. The nose and throat and upper air passages are the starting points of "Flu." Use a spray or atomizer and such medicine in it as you can get from the druggist. Spray night and morning. If a cold develops spray oftener.
4. If fever or aches and pains such as commonly occur in grip occur, go to bed and consult your physician.

5. Don't get up until feeling well. Many cases of death from relapse have occurred from mild cases of "Flu" because the patient got up too soon. "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

SCHOOL NEWS

An unusually large number of schools are starting late this year on account of the shortage of labor and help of the children being needed at home. Nearly all will be in session the first week in October.

Irene Marr, of Kansas City; Viola Nelson, of Bacona; Harold

Hathorn, of Laurel, and Bruce Hahn, of Mountaineer, report a very pleasant week at the fair at Salem. They were the winners in the boys and girls industrial club contests.

Viola Nelson, who won first place in sewing project Division I, in Washington County, won second place in the state-wide contest among two hundred competitors. Harold Hathorn's Holstein heifer won fifth place in the club contest in competition with all breeds. He also entered the open competition with Holsteins winning first prize.

Washington County Industrial Club general exhibit won fifth place. Twelve counties were represented.

PORTLAND LAWYER RETURNS FROM EAST

Attends American Bar Association Session at Boston

ALSO S. OF V. MEETING

Visited Lincoln's Old Home in Illinois

Charles J. Schnabel, Portland attorney, returned from attending the annual meeting of the American Bar Association, in Boston, and while there he was chosen General Council, representing the State of Oregon, and was placed on several important committees, among others contested applications for membership by persons suspected of having negro blood, a very delicate subject with the national association. Mr. Schnabel regards this meeting as one of the most important and impressive ever held by the A. B. A., as much will be expected and done by the Bar in the coming reconstruction days. Portland is known all over as a delightful convention city, and its climate and the hospitality of its people is commented upon. Portland was urged by Mr. Schnabel as the city at which the 1920 meeting is to be held, and it is now being considered by the Executive Committee which makes the selection in January. The importance of selecting a strong man for President was emphasized, and after a contest in which W. A. Blunt, of Florida; Edmund F. Traube, of Kentucky, and Hampton L. Carson, of Pennsylvania, figured, the latter was elected. General Carson is elected all anti-constitutionalism, revolutionism and Russian Sovietism. The stand taken by that body was emphasized by the ringing resolutions adopted within the sight of Fanniel Hall and Bunker Hill. It stiffened the spines of the authorities who were flitting with the police situation. The same set of resolutions were adopted at the encampments of the G. A. R. and Sons of Veterans, held at Columbus, Ohio, the following week. Columbus got a valuable lesson from Portland on taking care of the old soldiers and kindred societies. An old soldier's money for a cigar or sandwich or pop was not received, while conveyances of every description were tendered them and subject to their beck and call. Mr. Schnabel enjoyed his stay in Columbus, at the encampment.

On his way West he made a pilgrimage to Lincoln's home, at Springfield, Illinois, visited his former residence, the court room in which he appeared, his tomb, and also the spot at the old depot where Lincoln made his farewell address to his neighbors and friends on his way to Washington. This address Mr. Schnabel insists is one of the finest and most pathetic utterances in the English language. Committees have been appointed to raise a large fund to build a tomb or shrine at Oyster Bay, (running into the millions) which will equal if not exceed that of Lincoln, at Springfield, Grant, at Riverside, or Napoleon, on the Seine, in memory of him who is regarded as the greatest American of his time. He says two panaceas are being suggested in the East as to the times and period—less under-production and more co-operation between employer and employee.

Clifford L. Long, on the U. S. Ship Buffalo, arrived in the New York harbor last week, after over sixteen months at sea. His ship belongs to the Pacific Fleet, and he expects to get back to coast waters as soon as the vessel is overhauled. He writes that the boat's crew is woefully short of men, owing to releases under the duration of war clause.

C. L. Crocker writes that he is now located at Comiskey, Ind., 15 miles from the Ohio River. Chas. wants the Argus sent to him, and tells us that he was out the other day and picked a basket of "paw-paws." Crocker is living in a section where there are just "gorges" of wild plums—and if you never ate a wild plum you've missed one of the "catinest" things you ever dreamed of. Chas. says to properly eat a wild plum you want it good and ripe, so it crushes between your fingers and thumb and the kids all lick their thumbs clear up to the last joint to get last sprinkle of juice.

SEVERAL CARS LIME BY LOCAL FARMERS

Purchases Made From the State Lime Plant

SOIL TESTS HELP SURVEY

Four-eighty Per Ton is Average Cost to Buyers

Many of the farmers of Washington County are co-operating in the purchase of ground lime stone from the state lime plant. Three or four cars have already been received and probably double that many more will be ordered in the near future. Many of the orders are coming from communities where the County Agent has made tests of the soil, to determine lime needs and where it has been shown that 1 1/2 to 3 tons per acre of lime was required.

The only soil yet tested in the county that has not shown a high acid per cent was the beaver dam soil. All other types have proven to be strongly acid and can be beneficially use at least two tons per acre.

Applications of lime stone are best made in the fall after plowing, before the sowing of grain on which clover will be sown in the spring, as best results are obtained on leguminous crops.

The cost of the ground lime stone to practically all points on the Southern Pacific in Washington County is $4.80 per ton.

Poultrymen to Tour

The poultrymen of Washington County will make a tour of the larger poultry plants Thursday, October 9th.

The following is a schedule of the plants to be visited and the places of meeting:

9:00 a. m.—Assemble on the street on the west side of the University Campus at Forest Grove.

9:15 a. m.—Arrive at the farm of A. C. Smith on Greenville road;

10:00 a. m.—Leave A. C. Smith farm;

10:10 a. m.—Arrive at the farm of F. S. Whitehouse, on Pacific Avenue;

10:55 a. m.—Arrive at farm of H. E. Thompson, at Oak Park station west of Hillsboro.

12:00 a. m.—Eat lunch at grove near Thompson farm or proceed to Hillsboro Grange hall.

1:10 p. m.—Leave Hillsboro for farm of W. H. Hoeffel, Witch Hazel;

1:25 p. m.—Arrive at Hoeffel farm;

2:10 p. m.—Leave Hoeffel farm.

2:40 p. m.—Arrive at farm of Fred Vedder, near Cedar-Mill.

3:25 p. m.—Leave Vedder farm and arrive at farm of Andrew Eggman & Son;

4:10 p. m.—End of tour. All poultrymen and others interested in poultry are invited to accompany this tour. A basket picnic will be held near one of the poultry farms if weather permits, but if not the picnic will be held in the Hillsboro Grange hall so that those interested should bring their lunch and prepare to stay all day.

The committee will appreciate it if poultrymen having machines will make room for other poultrymen who do not have this convenience.

Mr. C. S. Brewster, of the Oregon Agricultural College, has promised to be present, and Mr. Upson, of the Oregon Poultry Association, will probably attend. This will be an excellent time for beginners in the poultry business to get valuable suggestions regarding the poultry industry by observing the methods used by the successful poultry raisers of the county, and hearing them explain their secrets of success.
