

CHESTER CLARK CAUGHT AFTER FOUR MONTHS

Escaped From Penitentiary at Salem August 14 of Past Year

ROBBED BEAVERTON BANK Former Forest Grove Boy Has Long Criminal Career

Chester Clark, alias Leo Hartman, alias Chas. Conley, is under arrest at Marysville, Cal., where he was first taken into custody on the charge of having shot a negro.

Later it transpired that Hartman was the Chester Clark who robbed the Bank of Beaverton last Spring, was allowed to plead guilty and given ten years at the pen in Salem.

Clark was well known as a boy at the Grove. His first arrest was for breaking into a house on Portland Heights.

Ira Wheeler, who has been living at North Bend for several years, came up to Aloha and Hillsboro, last week, to spend the Holidays.

J. D. Koch, of south of Cornelius, was in the city Saturday afternoon.

Chas. Robinson, of near Scholls, was a city visitor the last of the week.

TELEPHONE PROBLEM DISCUSSED AT CLUB

Manager Chas. E. Wells Succinctly Explains Position

THREE MEN TO CONFER Will Meet With Telephone Managers and Discuss Matter of Rates

Chairman C. B. Buchanan, Sam Weil and Fred J. Sewell were appointed a committee at the Hillsboro Club meeting Tuesday night to meet with the managers of the various telephone companies and take up the matter of telephone rates—and the gentlemen will have some nut to crack.

Perkins now has his free air and water system installed—drive up and help yourself. You are welcome.

Mr. Wells replied that he was ready for any solution to the problem but that he could not be expected to carry the expense of making several thousand switches monthly.

Without embellishments Mr. Wells said that he did not feel that his company should operate at a loss that outside lines might have free service thro his switchboard, and he felt that his company must not be the "goat," and furthermore, he felt that when people understood the situation they would not blame him for his attitude.

He made affidavits to his statements of operating, using the same figures that must go under affidavit to the public service commission, and to which figures any stockholder or complainer under the law has access.

W. P. Atkinson, working for the city of Portland, spent Monday in the city where years ago he wielded the policeman's stick as city marshal "Bill" or "Ironside," as the peace disturbers formerly called him, still owns his Hillsboro residence, and comes out every once in a while to see how things are firing out in the old bailiwick.

H. M. Basford, owner of the Granite Ledge Farm of 160 acres on the River Road to Farmington, has sued John Rycken for $67.50 and issued attachment proceedings. He says Rycken was to pay him rental of $2.50 per day and has failed so to do, and he wants the money and the ranch back in his possession.

Paul C. Long, one of the veterans of the famous Ninety-First Division in its European career, was in the city Monday, the guest of his brother, L. A. Long.

PIONEER INSTRUCTOR VISITS FORMER PUPIL

M. N. Bonham "Made Hit" With Portland Boniface

RAWHIDE DAYS RECALLED

How Regulations Were Regulated in Old Days

It makes a difference, doesn't it, as every boy who ever attended school in the days of blood and iron really and truly know. Nowadays things are different but when M. N. Bonham began teaching in Canyon City long ago old-fashioned ideas were in vogue.

Mr. and Mrs. Bonham, who now reside in Hillsboro, came to Portland yesterday. They registered at the Imperial and Phil Metschan Jr. recognized them. It was from Professor Bonham that the hotelman learned his A. B. C.'s in 1882.

Then the teacher's Robert's rules of order consisted of a long, green rawhide. Young Phil had been rather outspoken as a little youngster and he didn't care much about regulations of the school room.

He had a back seat. One day he poured ink down the back of the boy seated in front of him. Strange to say, the other lad objected.

"Philip," said the teacher slowly, "come to my desk and sit beside me. You may then keep out of mischief."

"Don't want to sit up there," replied the scholar.

"Come, Philip," urged dear teacher.

"Won't do it," said the boy.

The next minute the professor had the lad by the nap of the neck and every step towards the desk was punctuated with a laying-on of the rawhide.

Phil laughingly told his guest about that incident.

"Do you remember it, professor?" asked the Portlander.

"No, I don't," said the visitor. It seems strange you should."

"Well, replied the hotel man, "if I had had that rawhide and you had been in my shoes, I'll bet you'd remember the incident, too."—Portland Daily.

B'r'er Bonham now uses the "golden rule" out here in Washington County.
