

MARCH GOES OUT LIKE ROARING LION

Snow Falls to Depth of Two Inches Tuesday Night

VANISHED IN FEW HOURS

More Acceptable Than Tornadoes of the Mississippi Valley

Oregonians of twenty years or more standing were complaining yesterday morning because during the darkness of night two inches of snow had descended and muffled good old Washington County soil. It was gone, however, in a couple of hours, excepting on the Chehalis ridges and the Coast Range.

When the Oregonian arrived, however, with the dispatches announcing a destructive tornado raging over the Mississippi Valley the local complainers concluded that a little flurry of the beautiful was much more preferable. Hundreds of lives were lost in the Eastern storm, while the green grasses of Oregon were growing right along under the thin carpet of white.

After all is said and done the snow here has injured nothing—on the other hand it has been a godsend to the grain now growing green and that which was seeded last week and the week before.

As an old Oregonian said this afternoon—"Well, you can't beat Oregon, anyway. We cuss the freshness of the weather once in a while, but we like it—and we stay. In fact, you can't drive us away. Why one perfect Oregon day a year is worth a spell of bad weather any old time."

MAKES A HIT

A. H. Rasmussen, of the Service Garage, is the author of a piece of verse, "Boost," and when it was read at the Hillsboro Club session, Tuesday night it was given a big "hand." "Boost" was the crux of the verse, and it boosted everybody and everything, town, business, business men and everybody who is helping to make the town what it is. The lines were very clever and sensed the true spirit of town building. Come again, Old Man!

10TH ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Fayram, of Oak Street, were host and hostess Sunday, to a dinner, celebrating their tenth wedding anniversary. Covers were laid for nineteen and the event was more than pleasing. Those present were Host and Hostess and daughter, Chloris; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Connell, Helen and Jack Connell; Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Reynolds, Regional Reynolds; Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Long, Donald E., Clifford L. and Margaret Long; Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Hande, Carlton Hande, and Miss Mildred Lemon.

FOR SALE

For sale: Netarts Happy Camp.—Address Mrs. Orpha Eastman, Tillamook, Ore. 3-4

A. P. Bradbury, well known here to business men and boy alike, died in Idaho, this week. Bradbury for years made weekly visits to Hillsboro selling for the Pacific Biscuit Co. He was visited with an attack of locomotor ataxia a few years ago, and commenced selling Saturday Evening Posts taking annual subscriptions. He was cheerful always even when just able to navigate, and he had many Hillsboro friends who will regret his death.

"Brad," as we knew him, sold his first box of crackers when he went on the road, to W. H. Wehrung, of the firm of Wehrung & Sons, and he always recalled the incident when he visited here.

SENIOR PLAY BOOKS HAVE JUST ARRIVED

Hillsboro High to Stage the Annual Play in few Weeks

"HURRY! HURRY! HURRY!"

Nineteen-Twenty Hilhi Rapidly Assuming Form, Soon Coming

Hillsboro High Seniors are busy these days putting in all extra time on the new play to be staged by the class—the annual play. The title of the coming feature is "Hurry, Hurry, Hurry." The students have a good cast and a big success is anticipated.

Herbert Scheidt, a former Hilhi student, now attending U. of O., was a school visitor Wednesday.

The 1920 Hilhi is rapidly assuming form and the editors of the various departments are striving to make the publication best ever issued, and no doubt it will be a credit to the school.

Mr. Smith, of O. A. C., talked to the student body last week about the crowded condition of the state colleges, emphasizing the fact that if the higher educational measures do not receive the vote of the people, conditions would become serious. He contended that state institutions are receiving less money than four or five years back if one considers the higher cost of everything.

—Leo Goar.

PHIL DOUGHTY WRITES

Phil Doughty, U. S. Navy, has been transferred from the Great Lakes station to San Diego, where he is with the U. S. Naval Air Station. Speaking of his trip, he writes to his parents:

"We stopped at Salt Lake City five hours. We improved part of the time by going to the Mormon tabernacle, where we were closed behind locked doors for 40 minutes listening to the pipe organ. It was the most wonderful music of its kind that I ever heard.

After that, our guide, a Mormon took us to a fountain that had at its base four large plates of carved copper, one representing the Mormons coming to Utah, one showing the blackbirds that came and ate the grasshoppers, and saved their crops; the next was a scene where a Mormon family was harvesting crops in the mountains, and one was a picture of the people building a wall to keep the people from illness and discontent. We were then taken in to a small church, where we listened to an interesting talk about the Mormons and their religion. I believe he said Brigham Young had nineteen wives and eighty-four children, but plural marriages were stopped 30 or 40 years ago.

Later we passed a couple of mining towns, where the buildings were painted green. One of the places boasted the name of hotel Jean. There are a few farms in Nevada, but most of it is used for grazing. I did not see much that looked familiar in California until we came to Colton about 70 miles from Los Angeles, where we found orange groves, flowers, and palm trees. From there on, it was one mass of green. The highways were bordered with trees. Some of them seemed to arch across the roads. It was certainly great to come out of sand, sage cactus, and mountains of rock, into the coast country, of vegetation and beauty. It seemed like getting home.

The barracks here is a palace compared to those at Great Lakes. They are made of cement, with big arches running along the center, and the roof is made of red tile. It would be impossible for me to describe the barracks and other buildings, so may send something on that line in the near future.

It rained here Sunday and Monday, but I did not mind it much. It is warm today, and it seems like the whole air force is out, by the noise they are making. First a big sea plane goes over with a roar that can be heard for a mile or more. Next comes an army plane but not with the noise of the heavy sea-plane. A little while ago I was watching one of our light sea-planes do the nose dive, and the loop and several other things. You ought to have seen one of the army planes flying a little while ago. He turned twisted and dived every way you could possibly think of. The army has ten hangars on one side of the island, but I do not know the number of planes. The island is ideal place for land planes, as it is as level as a floor. I would hate to see a tidal wave hit it. I expect they will send up the blimp today, and maybe an observation balloon. The hangar looks as if it might be 100 ft. high, 300 ft. long and 100 ft. wide, but could not say as I never thought to ask any one. The navy has three or four land planes, and at least twenty of thirty sea planes at this base, so there is one or more up most of the time."

Carl Dick, of West Union, was in town yesterday.

Adam Spies, of below Elmton, was in town today.

G. Sasbauer, of Cornelius, was a city caller yesterday.

Miss Pearl Allen visited friends in Corvallis the last of the week.

For sale: About 3 dozen Rhode Island Red pullets, O. A. C. strain, most all laying.—A. B. Garrigus, Banks, R. 2; phone Banks 552 Manning. 3-4

Loyal M. Graham, of Forest Grove, asks re-election to the House of Representatives and has filed for the primaries on the Republican ticket.

Party wants to borrow $7,000 on 122-acre farm between Hillsboro and Beaverton.—Stroud & Co., Incorporated, Beaverton, Oregon. 51-1f

W. H. McEldowney, Supt. of the Ladd & Reed Farm, has moved to the Grove and will travel to and fro daily to Reedville through the spring and summer season, on the highway.

Rose Comb Rhode Island Red eggs for hatching. My matings are much better than ever this year, and we guarantee satisfaction. Price, $1.50 for 15 eggs.—E. L. McCormick, 1324 Jackson St. 47-1f

Tom Sweeney, well known here several years ago as a contractor, is out for the Republican nomination for Congress at Portland. Tom was a Progressive in 1916, and he says he is going to make McArthur hustle.

Team for sale: Black mare, coming 7 years, 1460; bay gelding, coming 8 years, 1400; Oliver sulky plow, 14-inch, good condition.—L. N. Rider, Hillsboro, R. 1; 14 miles northeast. 2-4

An Easter tea will be given by the Cong. Missionary Society at the home of Mrs. Deck, Wednesday, April 7, at 3 p. m. A program of music and readings will be given. The offering will be for the Schnaudler fund. All ladies are invited.

J. J. VanKleeck, of Kinton, Ed. Cary, of Yamhill County, Lester R. Campbell, of Scholls, and Geo. Biersdorf, of North Tualatin Plains, were all in the city Tuesday, meeting with Mr. Jamison talking over the coming Jersey Jubilee.

E. R. Parnell and wife, of near Emid, Okla., arrived here Monday and are guests at the G. N. Taggart home. Mrs. Parnell is a sister of Mr. Taggart. They expect to make their home in Oregon. Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Goins, of the same state, are with the Parnells, and they too, seek to make Oregon their future habitat if the country suits them.

Relieving Nerve Strain—That's what Dr. Thompson's Glasses are doing. If you have reason to believe there is anything wrong with your eyes at all you should have him examine them at once. Consult him next visit, Wednesday, April 7, Washington Hotel, all day. 3-4

EARLY PIONEER WOMAN PASSES IN HILLSBORO

Came to the Northwest in 1839, Settling at Vancouver

MRS. MARY A. BIRD DEAD

Was Eldest Woman in Pioneering in the State

Mrs. Mary Ann Bird, widow of the late John Bird, died in this city, March 30, 1920, after a short illness. Some weeks ago Mrs. Bird sustained a broken leg while at Cove Orchard and she was brought to the Smith Hospital for treatment. She had been ill for some days when the accident took place, and the shock unnerved her. She was perhaps the eldest woman in the state in pioneering, having come to the Northwest in 1839.

Her maiden name was Johnson, and she was born in Manitoba, Canada, in 1837, the daughter of John Johnson, who was in the employ of the Hudson Bay Company. The parents came to Vancouver, Wn., in 1839. They later moved to Washington County and settled at old Glencoe. She was married to John Bird Feb. 18, 1856, the husband passing years ago. She is survived by the following children—Wm. Bird, of Idaho; John Bird, of Vale, Ore.; Frank Bird, of The Dalles; Mrs. Jessie Perry, of Myrtle Point, Or.

Of her immediate family she is survived by the following brothers and sisters—Samuel Johnson, of Hillsboro; Henry Johnson, of Shady Brook, near North Plains; Mrs. John C. Beach, of North Plains; Mrs. Letitia Perry, Shady Brook; and Mrs. Maria Beck, of England.

The funeral takes place from the Donelson Undertaking Parlors, tomorrow (Friday) morning at 10 o'clock, and the remains will be taken to Vancouver for interment.

Mrs. Bird was a member of the Oregon Pioneer Association, and rarely missed an annual meeting. She retained her memory to the last, and was splendidly versed in Northwest early history. She was a good neighbor, kindly and helpful, and held the esteem of a large circle of friends.

SISTERS CELEBRATE

The Pythian Sisters Temple held a session last Friday evening, celebrating the 25th anniversary of the installation of the order in Hillsboro. The lady charter members were presented with gold Pythian Sister pins, W. G. Hare making the presentation. Those receiving them were Mrs. R. H. Greer, the first Past Chief; Mrs. Janie Sewell, the first Manager; Mrs. Geo. Schulerich, the first M. of R. & C.; Mrs. Maud Williams and Mrs. L. H. Barrett, members of the first staff.

There was a cafeteria lunch, and the charter members, being the guests of honor, were seated at a table which was decorated with the colors, yellow and white, and a cake with 25 candles. The table was presided over by Miss Eliza Shorey, M. E. C., and the speaker of the evening was made a guest of honor with the charter members.
