What to look for in buying a Phonograph

Whether or not a phonograph is attractive in design and finish is a matter for each individual to decide, for your personal taste enters very largely into the decision.

The cabinet, however, should be well finished—the back as well as the front.

Carelessness in finishing the back of an instrument may mean carelessness in other points of manufacture which are not open to inspection after the instrument has been finished.

The best way to decide on a Phonograph is to hear the different makes of machines and then hear the Brunswick, and we know what the verdict will be.
