For Sale—Forty-five acres, on rail line; 33 acres cleared; 12 acres pasture and timber. Buildings—11 room house; barn—both worth $7000; electric lights in the house and barn, and water piped to buildings. If interested, write "Ranch," care Argus, Hillsboro, Ore. 47

Eastern men who pass the Argus office invariably stop in to get a look at a big turnip, Purple Top, grown on the ranch of Mrs. C. Millet, of beyond North Plains. It weighs around the 30-lb. point, and would make a dairy herd a pretty good feeding.

W. J. Gregg, of Leisville, was a city caller Monday. W. J. called on the Argus while here and paid his 27th annual subscription to the home paper.

Homer C. Atwell, of Forest Grove, one of the pioneers in progressive horticulture, was in the city Monday afternoon.

Knute J. Madsen, of Portland, and May Nelson, of Washington county, were united in marriage by Judge Goodin, Jan. 22, 1921.

JUDGE SEED AT NAMPA
The Federal Board student seed judging teams from O. A. C., the Washington State College and University of Idaho met at Nampa, Idaho, Jan. 10-14, in a contest, and the real contest was between Washington and O. A. C. Washington winning first and O. A. C. second. Hugh Farnham scored high for Corvallis. The other O. A. C. boys in the judging contest were Frank Groves and Henry Bechen. The O. A. C. men all made a fine showing, considering they were not familiar with the Inland Empire type of seeds.

AUXILIARY MEETING
The Auxiliary to American Legion Post No. 6 will hold their regular meeting Tuesday evening, Feb. 1, 1921. All members requested to attend.

Little Doris Kohlman, of Metzger, who at the age of 13, started out to see the world in her half-child, half-woman way, was caught in Portland and brot here Monday before Juvenile Court. She said that she went to Portland to stay with a woman on the advice of a neighbor woman of Metzger. The court found that the parents were in no way to blame for the erratic action of the child, and after a good cry by Doris, who is a likely looking child, she returned home satisfied that she was willing and more than willing to go home and remain there. The little lady's life is now at the making or unmaking, and the probity of her parents is warrant that she is in the right place, just now, at the right time. As the court remarked, "this is the critical time in the little lady's life, as it generally is for all children of her age."

Mrs. Emma Christofferson, of Portland, formerly of Hillsboro, has been experimenting with the X-ray apparatus, and thinks she has discovered a process of identification that eventually will do away with the "Thumb-print" process of tagging criminals. An X-ray of the thumbs is her recipe, and it is said that no two people have thumb bones alike, and the photography will serve as an identification that discounts the Bertillon methods. It is said that in over a thousand pictures no two thumbs show the same lines of photography, and if this is so, the method of identifying criminals will be revolutionized. Mrs. Christofferson was imbued with the idea when a criminal lawyer suggested the great possibilities of error in the old system. She has applied for letters patent.
