ONION GROWERS TO TOUR COUNTY FIELDS

August 10 is Date Set for the Big Pilgrimage

MEET AT JOHNSON'S FARM

Between Cedar Mill and Beaverton—Then for Sherwood

On Wednesday, August 10, the onion growers of Washington County onion fields.

Those touring will meet, first, at the farm of Robt. Johnson, between Cedar Mills and Beaverton, at 8:30 a. m. Thirty minutes will be spent looking over the onions at the Johnson farm. At 9 o'clock the crowd will leave for the farm of F. Erickson, known as the Fanno farm, near Fanno station, on the Southern Pacific, arriving there about 9:20 and leaving at 9:50 for the farm owned by J. C. Leedy, at Kinton, where they will arrive about 11 o'clock. Special attention will be given at the Leedy farm to snout control demonstrations which are being carried on by the Washington County Farm Bureau in co-operation with the Oregon Agricultural College.

Leaving the Leedy farm after 11 o'clock the plan is to arrive at the farm of Fred Elsner in the South Bend country, for dinner. Bring a basket dinner and join them in an old-fashioned picnic. Leaving the Elsner farm at 1:30 the next stop will be the Weckert farm, in the Sherwood onion fields, and will leave Sherwood at 2:30 for the Mulloy onion fields, arriving there about 3:15. Leaving Mulloy at 3:15 p. m., the last stop will be at the Tualatin onion fields.

The object of our tour, which is being arranged by a committee composed of J. C. Leedy, Otto Wohler, Frank Rowell and F. C. Francis, is to bring the onion growers together once a year to visit neighboring fields and farms and discuss the problems which confront the onion growers. One of the sources of serious loss this year has been the onion maggot. Part of the onion growers of the county plan to follow in 1922 the Canadian method of controlling this pest.

LOCAL ATHLETE PRAISED

Lawrence (Okey) Taggart expects to report for football practice at O. A. C. September 12. Taggart is the only Aggie athlete to win four numerals. The following is taken from a Boston paper:

"Lawrence Taggart '24, of Hillsboro, Oregon, has the distinction of being the only person to be awarded four numerals at Oregon Agricultural College for participation in athletic events last season. He won his first numeral as tackle on the freshman football eleven, having captained his team through several victories. As a member of the freshman undefeated basket ball team he was awarded his second numeral for the year. In track he was awarded another numeral, having won 11 points in hurdle events for his team. He proved the "find" of the freshman base ball nine when he was sent in to pitch in the last game of the series. His track work prevented him from practicing any before the games, but despite lack of training he held the University of Oregon freshmen to four hits."

DEER SEASON, AUG. 20

The season for killing bucks will open August 20 and remain open until October 20. This means two months, and if you can't bag your deer in 60 days then you aren't a real hunter.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. L. Batchelder, of near North Plains, were city callers Monday. They have just completed a new cottage at Salt Air, near Rockaway, and will leave in a few days to enjoy a vacation.
