County Official Paper

Subscription, $1.50 per annum.

Issued every Thursday by Mrs. E. C. McKinney and L. A. Long

Publicists here and there criticize the county budget meeting, out, after all, it relieves the court of a great deal of trouble and responsibility. But, supposing that all taxpayers should come in and debate the budget? Where would it be held? The city auditorium wouldn't be large enough and an open air meeting, with amplifiers, would be out of the question in December.

In the death of George Armstrong, Washington County lost another of its early pioneers whose word was as good as bond, and that meant gilt-edged. He was noted for his love of fair play, for his appreciation of good sportsmanship and for being every inch a man in all endeavors.

Talk about a real honest-to-goodness lover of Christmas—Frank Schulmerich has the champion turkey hen of the world, and she has already started to help out the 1922 Christmas market. Two days after Christmas, Frank says Mrs. Hen Turkey came up out of the woods pasture and brought in four young turks which she had just hatched. He had to take them away from the mother bird, as she was intent on showing them all the feathered flock and they were about to perish. Frank is raising them under cover and says they are getting along nicely although they miss the bugs and things that go to make a perfect turkey menu.
