May

May is here! May is here! All mixed melodies do we hear, The croak of frogs and hum of bees Mingling with the breezes through the trees.

Chirp of crickets, birds' melodious strain,

All come like an ethereal rain, In a crystal shower

Pure and sweet as a bridal bower. The trees are dressed in green,

Fabrics of the most delicate sheen, Trimmed in blossoms of white lace

Made by Nature's hand of grace. May is here! May is here!

The month we love so dear; Our thoughts she is sure to lure,

And our hearts secure.

Poor feeding methods are responsible in many cases for high mortality.

Salt fed in large quantities is poisonous to fowls, but a pound to each 100 pounds of dry mash is desirable as an appetizer.

Take Off Them Whiskers You Ain't Santa Claus

From the way their ads read you'd think some of the present-day tire dealers were going to be unhappy the rest of their lives if they accidentally sold you a tire at a profit.

I hate to be a kill-joy but that stuff is the bunk. You know and I know that in the tire business, as in any other business, Christmas only comes once a year.

Maybe I'm slow but I make no pretense of being a philanthropist. I don't try to tell you I'm selling tires below cost, and I don't think you expect to buy them that way.

I sell Goodyear Tires. I sell them at a fair margin of profit and I back them with helpful, money saving tire service. And this combination of quality plus service is keeping my old customers and constantly bringing me new ones.

Next time a tire dealer offers you something for nothing you just grin and tell him: "Take off them whiskers, you ain't Santa Claus." Then come around and let me sell you a Goodyear.
