Create More Fans Through Radio

Graduate managers of the colleges and universities of the northwest last week went on record as being opposed to the broadcasting of football games over the radio, claiming that it cut down the attendance. The Oregonian in an editorial Monday very ably answers this allegation and points to the true position of college athletics and the radio. It has been our impression that more football fans are created through the radio broadcasting of games, and besides, what good follower of the game can be satisfied with an imitation when, if possible, he can go to see the real thing. We quite agree with the Oregonian that the general public has some rights in the matter.

All should bear their proportionate share of the cost of government, but the ownership of property as a basis for taxation has outlived its time. Property ownership is no indication of the ability of a man to pay. This applies especially to the ownership of agricultural land, where the returns do not justify the heavy burden of taxation this kind of property has thrust upon it. Investigating bodies have investigated and groped, and then some more, and then usually recommend an income tax. When the ballot is not "fogged up" with other similar measures, the fairest tax of all is likely to be forthcoming.

Hickman's hanging has been delayed, according to news reports from the southern state. Legal technicalities are getting in their bit to interfere with the ends of justice and the slow cumbersome court procedure will give the "Fox" additional sweet moments of life.

Secretaries out to draw farmers to Oregon lands—headline. We believe that a little concentrated thought and action might first be put in on the tax question in order to bring about an equalization or some fair basis for collecting taxes.

U. S. Senator Norris has suggested that the marines be sent to Chicago to quell the lawless element. They could do the world a lot more good there than in Nicaragua.

Mrs. Sargent Nominated P.T.A. Head

Mrs. Walter Sargent of Gales Creek was nominated president of County Council of Parent-Teacher associations at the meeting at Dilley Saturday. Other officers named: Mrs. M. Fish, Forest Grove, and Mrs. S. Chamberlain, Aloha, vice-presidents; Mrs. Walter Wolfe, Dilley, secretary; Mrs. L. Langdon, Garden Home, treasurer, and Mrs. Emma Bryant, Forest Grove, auditor. Officers will be elected at the next meeting.

Benefit Bazaar at Farmington Coming

The Farmington Ladies' Aid will give a bazaar of miscellaneous useful articles April 7, afternoon and evening. The Farmington young people will conduct the program in the evening. Proceeds will be used for community interests and the public is invited.

Ivan Freeman Opens Sign and Art Shop

Ivan Freeman, former proprietor of the Malibu, is today opening a sign painting, poster art and window trimming shop in the Gates Auto Top Shop building.

Takes Chevrolet Position

Thomas C. Doyle, formerly with MacKenzie Sales at Forest Grove and before that at Gaston, has taken a position as salesman with the R. J. Higdon Motor Co. Mr. Doyle and family will move here later.

Dana to Speak

Marshall Dana, associate editor of the Oregon Journal, will be one of the speakers at the pre-Easter services at the M. E. church.

CLEAN-UP, PAINT-UP, URGE OF COMMITTEES

Before using a new casserole, set it on several folds of cloth or paper, into a large sauce pan and add cold water. Heat water gradually to boiling point and keep boiling six or eight hours, then wipe utensil and set aside for future use. When ready to use heat casserole gradually. Never pour cold water in a hot dish. In period rooms, sometimes glass, jade or metal conventionalized flowers are used as mere designs. Painted or gilded seed pods, wax or artificial flowers are no longer being used. To obtain best results when cooking a roast, have the oven hot to harden the outside and keep the juice in. After that lower the temperature. Quickly grown kohlrabi may be cut in halves, crosswise, cooked tender and served with cream, cheese, Bechamel or Hollandaise sauce. It is cooked in water without salt. To correct curdled mayonnaise, add slowly the curdled mixture to a well beaten egg or yolk and slowly add oil. In making juicy berry pie, thicken the filling before putting into the crust to prevent the juice from cooking out. Water used when cooking onions if boiled down, will make soup or stew flavoring.

That he broke Professor Bradley was a precautionary measure and not born of any personal malice. No doubt his subordinates had found the professor was not rich and supposed him ripe for the fall. There is hardly a doubt that he has made enormous amounts by these methods, always covering himself with hopelessly compromised lesser men who dared say nothing. As to Mr. Malet, that was merely bad luck and not in the first design. I don't suppose Raxon had anything personal against him, but he recognized the opportunity to escape from a troublesome position. The only purely personal spite was in the case of Mr. Neeland Barnes. Raxon was intending to buy a big house at Narragansett and entertain largely.

"I don't remember the name there," said Barnes. "He left the pier," Milman answered. "Raxon is curiously sensitive to ridicule. He could not remain to be pointed out as the man Neeland Barnes had contemptuously tossed into the ocean. It took him several years to get his revenge, but it was a complete one. He boasts that he never lets up, and ascribes Indian ancestry to this unamiable quality. His most spectacular hatred was that my poor friend Hazen Brewer incurred."

"Brewer committed suicide because he had plunged into penury a man who was near and dear to him. This was a man unused to finance, who trusted Brewer with his fortune and mortgaged his home in a vain effort to save his friend. Mr. Brewer felt disgraced. I think this emotion was far more potent than the fact of his financial collapse. He did not know that his friend harbored no hard thoughts of him and would have made no complaint. After all, the friend's loss was very little compared with his downfall."

Fleming Bradley, perhaps the closest observer of Milman's guests, was becoming possessed with a vast impatience to know for what reason he had been summoned. Bradley had the analytical mind of the scientist. There were several things in Milman's narrative which needed elucidation. "Why," he asked suddenly, "did you subscribe to a press-clipping agency and put a detective on Mr. Raxon's track?"

"Because I had learned through a source entirely confidential that it was Raxon who had ruined Mr. Malet. I was interested in Mr. Malet. I think that marble group proves it. And I have said I was interested in your work, too. If it had been possible to clear you, I should like to have done so. I am not sure there was not something of childish vanity in it. I liked to sit here in my lonely, unvisited house and feel I was learning day by day, hour by hour, more about a man who believed himself above the law and building up this knowledge into a weapon against him. But I found he was so secure as to be able to boast of things that no legal evidence could charge him with. Neeland Barnes, for example. A few hundreds spent in bribery, or a few promises dropped as to future patronage, and the thing was accomplished."

"All you have done," said Bradley, who was suddenly assailed with doubts as to Milman's ultimate purpose, "is to get us here and show us what failures we are. That is not kind, unless you have a remedy. Don't you see it puts us in a very poor light? A man may fall and still have self-respect left. I decline to consider myself a black sheep. You tell me Raxon ruined my career. I shall make a point of seeing the editors of all the great New York papers and telling them what you have said. Too long a certain type of man has ruled our cities in the name of democracy."

There was no doubt now about Peter Milman's uneasiness as he listened. "I thought you understood," he said quietly, "that this conversation was privileged. If you go to your editors you will do two things: One will be to convince them that you have brooded so long on your own troubles that you are mad. The other will be to disclose the confidences a dead man gave me."

"But you want me to give up the only chance I may ever have of clearing my name," Bradley complained. "You can never clear it that way. I don't think you can ever hope to defeat Paul Raxon that way." His tone changed a little. "Tell me this, Mr. Bradley. Which counts more with you: the clearing of your name of suspicion of dishonesty—not actual conviction of it, remember, for your case never came before a court of law—or the opportunity to devote your life to your chosen science?"

"The latter, of course," Bradley cried. "It is only if I establish my innocence that I can hope to get another appointment. Such work as mine is very costly. I must have large funds at my disposal and elaborate equipment."

Points Determine Industry Location

There are eighteen essential points which are deciding factors in the selection of a community by an industry for an industrial location. The points are: 1. Land at fair prices. 2. Reasonable taxes. 3. Good shipping facilities and favorable freight rates. 4. Adequate and reliable electric power at low rates. 5. Constructive banking. 6. Good housing at reasonable rentals. 7. Pure water in sufficient quantities. 8. Good street car service. 9. Safe waste disposal system. 10. Good schools. 11. Churches which include tolerance among their virtues. 12. Dependable fire and police protection. 13. Skilled medical, surgical and dental service. 14. Gas service. 15. Progressive merchants. 16. A fair and independent electorate. 17. Adequate telephone service. 18. A community spirit friendly to industrial development.

Kite Time Dangerous Time for Children

Kite time is danger time for children and electric power and light companies. Officials of the companies point out that it is very dangerous to fly kites near electric wires. In addition to very great danger of grave personal injury there is the further hazard of damage caused by cross circuiting of wires. Especial warning is being given against the flying of kites with the metal frames that are now being sold. Some cities have ordinances prohibiting the flying of metal kites in the corporate limits. The company officials do not mean to discourage or prohibit the pleasure that comes to a boy from flying his kite, but they do advise that an open space should be used for the purpose. Daisy salad is made by slicing the white of a hard boiled egg lengthwise, and placing it on a bed of shredded lettuce in the position of petals. Centers of grated egg yolk and mayonnaise are used.
