

At the Churches

Trinity Lutheran Church
Third and Walnut Streets
George Reula, Pastor
German service next Sunday at 10:30. Sunday school at 9:45. "In morals, as in physics, the stream cannot rise higher than its source." Just as external force must be applied to water, for instance, to raise it above the level of its source, just so external force must be applied to the morals in man if it is to be raised higher than the level of morality in natural man. The religion of Christ-Crucified is the only external force that has been able to accomplish this. The word of the Gospel has that intrinsic power to bring about a complete regeneration in man. We preach that Gospel, and you are cordially welcomed to attend our services.

Methodist Episcopal Church
E. B. Lockhart, Minister

The Sunday school is rapidly getting into its fall work, and the Epworth League will discuss "Facts of Prohibition." There were about thirty young people at the service last Sunday night and the study course for the season of renewed activity and planning for the mid-winter convention have much to interest the young people.

Wake Up! Advertise! Easterner's Advice

"Oregonians should stick a pin in themselves, wake up and advertise."
This statement was made to Dr. Charles A. Lamkin by Dr. Anderson of Minnesota, when the two made the Columbia river highway trip Thursday of last week. The easterner said the Palisades of the Hudson were toys as compared with the Palisades at The Dalles. He described the Columbia river highway trip as well worth the time, money and effort to come here from the east. A million a year should be spent in advertising the highway, he said.
Dr. Lamkin attended a dental clinic at The Dalles Friday and Saturday.

Esther Scheffeld, at Los Angeles, California.

Deceased is a son of A. R. England of this city, and lived here until three months ago, when he went to California for his health. He was a sufferer from tuberculosis. Mr. England and his son, Forrest, left Sunday for Los Angeles to attend the funeral.

Walnuts Grow in Large Clusters at Banks

Two clusters of walnuts, eight in one, and ten in the other, were brought into the Argus office Friday by Mrs. E. M. Ingles of Banks, who says the trees are well loaded. Mrs. Ingles says that it is the first time she has ever seen so many in clusters. The walnuts are in the Argus window.

"Dad's" Day at U Set for Saturday

University of Oregon, Eugene, Oct. 4.—(Special)—Fathers of the University of Oregon students living in Hillsboro are out to challenge the claim made by A. W. Norblad, of Astoria, that the coast city will have the largest delegation of "Dads" at the annual Dad's Day event here October 6. Mr. Norblad has just wired President Arnold Bennett Hall that at least a dozen cars will leave in a special caravan from his vicinity. These will be appropriately decorated with slogans and banners, and the fathers will be out for a great time from the moment they leave Astoria.

Fathers of students from Hillsboro who have been invited to come to Eugene include the following: T. H. Tongue, L. M. Kelly, H. R. Chantler, J. W. Goodin, C. A. Hande, Thomas Connell, W. K. Putnam, John A. Rasmussen, William Meierjurgan, S. E. Olson, S. H. Thwaite, L. A. Long and H. R. Emmott.

Three Views on Advertising

A local business man complained the other day to one of his customers that he did not see why he could not get more business, as he argued that his prices were as low as those for the same goods anywhere else. The customer spoke up at once and said: "Well, they may be, but I take the P. V. and I have never seen your ad with any prices quoted on it. Are you ashamed of them, or are you just afraid your competitor may see them?" After all is said, there is no reason why any man's services or goods should not stand on their merits, and there is not the slightest excuse for supposing that a competitor does not know what your prices are. He doesn't have to depend upon the printed prices to secure the information he desires. But it is important to let the buying public know what your prices are, what goods you carry, and something about their quality. — Windsor (Colo.) Poudre Valley.

When business men of the small town fully understand that advertising is an investment and not a donation to the printer or publisher, then will he become a great factor in holding his trade and attracting trade to his town. Just how much value an advertiser gets out of his use of space depends largely upon what he puts into that space in the way of thought and attention to the things that appeal to the buying public. One of the odd things to the publisher of a newspaper—and one of the unfair things—is that those who consider advertising a donation, never charge the expense to donations but always charge it to advertising.—Windsor (Colo.) Poudre Valley.

If Eaton merchants could only say "No!" to worthless outside advertising schemes as easily as they can say "No!" to the Herald when asked to do real advertising, they would not only save money but would get some returns for the money they spend.—Eaton (Colo.) Herald.
