SALAD AND SANDWICHES MAKE ATTRACTIVE DINNER

Sunday night suppers offer a simple mode of entertainment for the busy homemaker, whether she lives in town or country. A simple salad and a well-made sandwich is welcomed by any guest, be he ever so fastidious.

Toasted cheese sandwiches served with fruit salad is a tempting combination. For the sandwiches a good cheese filling is made with one cup grated cheese, one cup rich milk, one teaspoon butter, two eggs, salt and paprika to taste. Heat the cheese and milk in double boiler until it is melted, fold in beaten eggs slowly and add seasoning. Stir until thick, then move on back of stove. Spread this mixture between slices of white bread and toast until brown. Serve very hot. A cup of coffee and a dish of assorted candies completes this delicious food ensemble.

Instead of serving the usual piece of cheese with apple pie, the cheese may be grated and sprinkled over the pie just a few minutes before taking it from the oven. The cheese melts, giving the crust an attractive appearance and a delightful flavor.

In making cinnamon rolls, a piece of clean string may be slipped under the rolled dough, bringing it around, crossing the ends and pulling tight. This makes a clean cut without flattening the rolls as a knife does.

A piece of inner tubing from an old tire may be folded over the edge of the table or shelf and the food chopper screwed on to it. This prevents the clamps from marring the table surface and keeps the chopper from slipping.

Scalding the milk that is used in breakmaking will lessen the chances for souring or of an off flavor in the bread.

If a small amount of vinegar, approximately three tablepoonsful, is poured over a tough roast before putting it in the oven, the meat will require less cooking to become tender.

If the skins of baked potatoes are cut open or pricked with a fork when they are first taken from the oven the potatoes will not be soggy.
