

Health Nurse Is Speaker at Noon Lunch Monday

Need for Larger Force Is Pointed Out By Speaker

Medical Men Help

Fire Prevention Committee Named; Dinner Meet Is Arranged

The need for a larger health force in Washington county was stressed by Mrs. Grace Richmond, county health nurse, in an address before the formal luncheon of the chamber of commerce Monday noon in which Mrs. Richmond briefly sketched the work that had been done. Dr. J. O. Robb, who was chairman, also called attention to the need.

Mrs. Richmond praised the doctors and dentists of the county for the cooperation given in examination in many of the county schools. Besides the pupils in the Hillsboro schools, the children at 56 other county schools have been examined. She hopes to complete the examinations in other county schools this year, and if possible work out a dental clinic during the month of July.

Of the 2058 children examined, 54 had heart defects, most of which could be corrected. Other defects reported were as follows: Thyroids, 134; ear, 188; dental, 1290, and eyes, 104.

The nurse told of the assistance given by the Red Cross, the American Legion and the women's clubs. The county federation of women's clubs furnished the play in the county fair and Mrs. Richmond said she hoped that a roof would be provided for the play pen by next year. This, she said, would be of value during the Fourth of July celebration.

The need of supervised playgrounds, where children can be kept off the streets, was pointed out by Mrs. Richmond, who spoke of the need for a summer camp for the underweight and undernourished so that they might have the right kind of a start in life. New health clubs will be started and the outstanding boys and girls will be sent to the summer session at Corvallis. Home nursing courses are being planned for the schools.

The health nurse trial in this county was financed by the Oregon Tuberculosis association, even though this county is healthy and doesn't have tuberculosis cases. Mrs. Richmond said that in four years she had found but 24 cases and most of them have been given hospitalization. One young man is now learning vocational and nursing at the University of Oregon. She has five cases in Salem and three at The Dalles.

The speaker pointed to the experiences of a child of nine that never walked, who after being hospitalized at the Shrine hospital and is now able to be around. Mrs. Richmond said she had always tried to keep the children at home, but they had to be hospitalized here and local doctors and dentists have been most generous in their help.

Appropriations for roads, schools and every kind of activity in the county are many times larger than for the health department, according to Mrs. Richmond, who pointed out the need for another nurse and a full time head of the health department in the larger towns.

Mrs. Richmond introduced Flora Wick, winner of first place at the state fair in the 4-H club health contest and who will be in the contest at the Pacific International later this month. Ida Muller was introduced as the 4-H club health girl showing the greatest improvement in health. Mrs. Lett, a Meredith club leader in the Hillsboro schools, and Hazel Blades, outstanding club member and leader of the health club, were also introduced.

E. E. Wiley expressed the hope that the county would show as much interest in the health of the children as it does in full-blooded stock. C. H. Noster called attention to the need for a full time health nurse and a full time doctor. Dr. Robb said it was a pity there weren't three Richmonds in the county.

Senator Schulmerich Defends Stand On University And Takes A Verbal Shot At President Hall; Some Questions Asked

Edward Schulmerich, state senator and one of the authors of the bill for the consolidation board for the state schools of higher education, in a letter to the Oregonian defends his statement concerning the university and takes a shot at President Hall.

Hillsboro, Ore., Oct. 4.—(To The Editor).—In reply to Dr. Hall, who has accused me with deliberately or unknowingly misrepresenting the appropriation of $70,000 in the 1929 session of the legislature for research work for the University of Oregon: The fact of the matter is, to get the bill through, they had to put it on the same bill for the annual appropriation for Oregon State so it would not be vetoed without depriving Oregon State of their appropriation. More shrewd politics I asked why this was not brought in on a separate bill. That would have been vetoed, and I know from whence I speak. It was contended for, and understood, that this appropriation was for a trip to Alaska and the Sandwich Islands, which Dr. Hall admits has been made. Now, how could I know this money was used for other purposes?

He further contends that I made some misleading statement relative to non-resident students of the university. My statement contained nothing about non-resident students at the University of Oregon. So why all this explanation? Furthermore, Dr. Hall confessed to me that he is now satisfied with the university and the consolidated measure, but at the time of its passage all the opposition came from the University of Oregon and its alumni. Their main contention was that they wanted the millage tax split 50-50 between the two schools, which I refused to do. I told them to wait until a survey was made and then if they were entitled to it I had no objection. After the bill was finally passed by both senate and house and in transit from the house back to the senate, the bill was mutilated and the following was inserted: "From its passage the millage tax shall be divided 50-50 between the University of Oregon and the Oregon Agricultural school." It was discovered by the senate committee in rechecking. I do not claim that Dr. Hall knew anything about this, but I would like to know in his opinion who did it.

I further suggest that if Dr. Hall would pay more attention to the job he was hired to do and spend less time running around the state building up political fences it would be better for the state and the school.

Governor Norblad Decides Against Calling Of Special Session Of Legislature On Power Sites; Many Lives Fire Total

Salem, Ore.—Taxpayers of Oregon who have been holding their breath the past few weeks awaiting the governor's decision relative to the proposed special session of the state legislature, can now heave that proverbial "sigh of relief" since Governor Norblad has decided against the session as an unwarranted and unnecessary expense under the circumstances. The governor's decision was made after a careful study of an opinion prepared by Attorney General Van Winkle dealing with various phases of the water power situation. While the governor is of the opinion that the state's laws concerning the water power are weak and in need of several amendments to properly protect the state's interest he declares that there is no urgent need which can not be met as well by the regular session of the legislature as by a special session called to meet this fall. Among other amendments which the next legislature as a result of the present agitation will be one providing for a state tax on water appropriated for power purposes and another one authorizing the state to condemn and take over power projects constructed by private corporations, a right
