Flight of Schools Worrying Officials; County High in Wheat Average

Salem—Flight of the schools is giving public officials no little concern. Information received by C. A. Howard, maintenance of any school at all is made possible only through heavy sacrifice on the part of the teacher who must be satisfied to give her service with little or no immediate prospect of pay. This condition is confined largely to the more isolated rural districts, although in some of the larger districts contracts have been signed for only a short term, continuation of school for the full term being contingent upon an increase in the payment of delinquent taxes.

In an effort to provide relief for a few of the many unemployed teachers, Howard has called attention of city and county school superintendents to the possibility of securing federal relief funds to pay work relief wages to needy unemployed teachers who are assigned to schools that would otherwise be closed for lack of funds. These funds, Howard explains, may also be used to pay relief work wages for teaching adults who are unable to read or write English.

In some sections the possibility of a plea for the payment of delinquent taxes just at this time. No information is available here as yet to indicate what response this plea is meeting.

Presence of George Neuner, former U. S. district attorney, in Salem this week, has revived speculation as to the possibility of his being found in the political ring next spring along with the headgear of other gubernatorial aspirants. Neuner was among those prominently mentioned just prior to the last gubernatorial campaign and his name has been suggested as among the possibilities in the forthcoming campaign.

Delay in getting the Coast highway bridge program under way has increased the cost of the five spans from the original estimate of $4,000,000 to a present estimate of approximately $5,100,000. Applications for federal aid in financing the bridges are being based on this latter figure.

Plans for the new bridge and new spans were placed before Hockley Tuesday and plans for the remaining two bridges, one at Reedsport and the other over the Siuslaw will be ready some time next week. Oregon is ready to start the work on the 40th bridge, Uncle Sam puts up the cash according to R. H. Baldock, state highway engineer.

Only two western states—California and Idaho—have a greater network of state highways than Oregon. California's mileage is 7347 and Idaho's 4812 compared to Oregon's 4000. Washington has only 3711 miles of state highways, Arizona 2895, Nevada 3782, Utah 4122 and Wyoming 3389.

Malheur county has an average yield of 25.5 bushels of wheat per acre on its best land in Oregon, according to the state department of agriculture. Washington county ranks second with an average yield of 29.5 bushels per acre and Coos county is third with an average yield of 29.3 bushels. The average yield of wheat in the world's wheat supply since only 63 acres were devoted to this crop last year, Umattila county is Oregon's biggest wheat producer with an average yield of 25.9 bushels on 240,484 acres devoted to this crop in 1932.

The state house is back to a semblance of normalcy again with Secretary of State Hess back at his desk after an absence of three months. Governor Meier looking in on his official duties occasionally, the board of control holding meetings once in a while and the supreme court handing down its regular weekly grist of opinions on Tuesdays.

Recall insurance is a fairly safe risk in Oregon. Last year, according to records in the office of the insurance commissioner $3,025 was collected in premiums on hail insurance and only $17 paid out for losses.

Ralph J. Staehli, secretary of the Allied Truck Owners, takes exception to references in this column to A. C. Anderson as the representative of the contract carriers and the smaller truck owners. Anderson, according to Staehli, represents very few legitimate contract carriers. On the other hand Staehli takes exception to reference to the Allied Truck Owners as an organization of "big operators." Rather, he declares, it is an organization of "responsible operators."

Nurse of County Suggests Plan Of Immunization

Group of 455 children entering county schools this fall was recommended as a basis for an immunization program during the coming year, according to the August report of Mrs. Hazel Foeller, county nurse. Survey of all pre-school children was made by Mrs. Foeller last month in connection with health work conducted under the county court and county health association.

In connection with school health service 35 medical examinations and dental examinations were given. During July a pre-school clinic was held at Aloha-Huber with Drs. J. O. Robb and H. D. Huggins as examiners and Dr. A. O. Pitman examining the pre-school children in the Oregon district. Plans were made for diphtheria and small-pox immunization during September in the Sherwood district.

Field visits totaled 35 in August, including tuberculosis, prenatal services, infant health and pre-school clinic. Cod liver oil was furnished through the county court to a number of cases where it was prescribed, but family financial conditions made it unobtainable. Eight cases of skin diseases were under surveillance. Tuberculin tests were given to six contact children by private physicians in the county. The tuberculin was furnished by Dr. Bellinger at Salem.

Considerable time was spent by the nurse in preparation for the 4-H club fair. Four health clubs were examined. Nursing services were given in a number of maternal cases and operations, in many of which the doctor's services were also gratis.

Court Names Budget Body

Public Meeting to be Held in First Half November

Members of the committee which will draw up the county budget for next year were appointed Tuesday by the county court. No date has been set for the first conference of the group, but present plans call for conducting the public budget meeting during the first half of November.

W. C. Schultz of Forest Grove, Howard Smith of Sherwood and Henry Jacobsen of Hillsboro route 3 will make up the committee. Addition of the old age pension and necessity of conducting primary and general state elections, tax delinquency of approximately 40 per cent, increase in the county warrant indebtedness of about $40,000 during the past year, and a decrease in valuation of timber lands estimated at nearly $3,000,000 will make drawing up the budget especially difficult this year, according to Donald T. Templeton, county judge.

Forms for budgets of the various county departments were distributed last week and turned over to the county court Wednesday. Finished budget must be submitted to the board of directors by the first of December, declared Templeton.

Services Held for Hillsboro Resident

Funeral services for Jacob Whitmore, 72, who died at his home in Hillsboro Sunday after a long illness, were conducted Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from Young's Funeral Home, with Rev. Henry S. Haller officiating. Interment was at the Laurel cemetery.

Mr. Whitmore was born in Jefferson county, Iowa, April 14, 1861. When 10 years of age he moved to Oregon with his parents, settling on a farm at Hillsboro. He was married to Miss Lena Sagert at Hillsboro in 1886. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Lena Whitmore of Hillsboro, two daughters, Mrs. Orange Phelps and Mrs. John Lakson, and four grandchildren, all of Hillsboro.

Although Mr. Whitmore had been ill for sometime he was able to be around all day Saturday. He died early Sunday morning.

City Schools Open Monday For Fall Term

September 18 Set as Opening Day for Students at Hillhi, Local Grade Schools

Bus Routes Given

Main Street Established as District Dividing Line

Monday marks the end of vacation days for students of Hillsboro grade and union high schools. Instructions as to bus routes and assembly of pupils on the opening day were given this week by B. W. Barnes, superintendent of schools, and C. H. Nosler, superintendent of grade schools.

Due to the fact that there will be but six teachers in the David Hill school and four at the Peter Boscow school, all classes up to the sixth grade will not be represented in both schools, according to Superintendent Nosler. Children up to the fourth grade whose classes are not represented in the school in their area will be transported by bus to the other building.

Districts Set
Main street has been established by the school board as the dividing line between the Peter Boscow and David Hill schools. Beginners or new pupils below the sixth grade who live south of Main street will report at the David Hill school, while those living north of Main street will go to the Peter Boscow building. Sixth, seventh and eighth grade pupils will enroll at the junior high school. All students who attended last year are requested to report to their former teachers. Bus pupils will be placed where rooms are least crowded.

Grade schools will open with one less teacher this year and a larger enrollment is anticipated by Superintendent Nosler. Beginners, who will be at least six years of age by November 15, will be admitted up to October 2.

Schedule for transportation of students to Hillsboro union high school this year was announced by B. W. Barnes, superintendent, Monday. All buses will leave the school building for the return trip at 12 o'clock the first day of school.

Cornelius bus will follow the same route as last year with the exception that students living in the Newman district will take the bus at the golf club house. The bus will make a second trip to Cornelius if necessary. Reedville bus will run on the same schedule as last year.

Scholls bus will start from the Joe Kerr place, turning north at (Continued on page 10, column 3)

Dog Tax Men Name Officer

A. C. Jackman of Hillsboro was appointed collector of dog taxes Tuesday by the Washington county dog control board with Walter Baldwin of Forest Grove as deputy. Jackman replaces B. R. Smith, former collector, who was indicted Tuesday on a charge of larceny of public funds.

Agreement similar to that under which Smith operated was signed by the control board and Jackman. New appointee will immediately receive collection of taxes and penalties on all unlicensed dogs in the county.

Issuing of licenses for 1933 in lieu of temporary receipts issued by Smith after May 17 for the tax and penalty that had been collected was authorized last week by the board. License in the county dog fund was made up by Smith's parents, according to County Judge Donald T. Templeton.

William Whiteside of Buxton was arrested Tuesday on a charge of taking an automobile without permission. He was held for Grand county officers.

Low Lloyd was taken into custody Thursday on a charge of destroying personal property. Charged with trespass, C. Henderson of Cornelius was arrested last week. Theft of two bicycles at Forest Grove last week was reported to the sheriff. Wheels stolen were the property of Robert Alishoff and Dennis Garrish.

Publisher Groups Form Association Of Two Counties

Washington and Yamhill county publishers and printers joined forces at a meeting in McMinnville Friday night. Yamhill county had been organized the week before with Steen M. Johnson, editor of the Sheridan Sun, as president, and the organization was extended to include the Washington county group.

Improvement in trade practices, uniform and reasonable schedules, adherence to legal advertising rates are objectives of the group. Another meeting will be held in McMinnville Friday night.

W. V. McKinney of the Hillsboro Argus, S. E. Fayram, local printer, Hugh McGilvra and Victor Spaulding of the Forest Grove News-Times and L. M. Beckwith of the Sherwood Valley News attended the meeting from this county. Fred Sefton of the Beaverton Review has also pledged co-operation. All are NRA members.

Schools Give Safety Rules

Figures of Extension Service Show Fair "Rent" Will Be Paid

Corvallis—With the amount of wheat acreage reduction definitely set at 15 per cent by the Wheat Adjustment administration, Oregon will have 156,900 acres to be taken out of what production this next year, if every wheat grower in the state signs up under the adjustment plan.

Deadline Set To File Forms Wheat Plan

September 25 Last Date to Apply for Benefit Under Reduction Program

Conferences Given

Directors of Control Group Express Confidence

(By Wm. F. Cyrus, County Agent)
Monday, September 25, has been set as the deadline for signing wheat applications, according to telegraphic word received today by William F. Cyrus, county agent, from the National Wheat Administration office. Growers will not have an opportunity of applying for the benefits of the plan after that date.

For the purpose of assisting those farmers desiring help in completing applications for wheat allotments, arrangements have been made for giving such aid in local communities throughout the county. These will not be meetings. Some of them will be held at the homes of one from the county who will be at each of the scheduled points from 1:30 in the afternoon until evening and if those who are interested will bring in their papers they can be completed at that time.

Schedule Given
The complete schedule for these appointments is as follows: Kinton, Monday, September 18; Grange, Monday, September 18; Barnes school, Monday, September 18; Imlay's, Reedville, Tuesday, September 19; North Plains, Tuesday, September 19; Bethany store, Wednesday, September 20; Banks, Wednesday, September 20; Kansas City, Thursday, September 21; Verboort, Thursday, September 21; Blooming, Friday, September 22; Laurel, Friday, September 22. In every case the hour of the appointment is for 1:30 p. m. If growers will have their production figures ready each time will be saved. Assistance is available if the county agent office any day.

Directors of the wheat control association meeting Monday night expressed confidence in the plan and stated that they are giving their time to it because they believe the wheat plan is a step in the right direction. J. M. Vanderzanden, Banks, in commenting on the act said, "This plan of reducing crop surplus by reducing acreage is the first constructive aid for farmers in years. What more can be done and what more can be expected if the farmer fails to avail himself of this opportunity."

Act Praised
Several farm relief measures have been given much publicity in recent years, but none of them have attacked the farm problem at its source as does the latest agricultural adjustment act, according to W. J. Enschel, Hillsboro, who sees in the wheat plan a "constructive, fundamental idea designed to give one crop the farmer grows a fair purchasing power and places the primary administration of the plan in the hands of the farmer himself."

Benefit payments on allotments are made from funds accumulating from the processing tax levied on wheat. It should be understood that the amount of the tax is determined by the difference between the actual average market price of wheat and what parity price would be at the time the amount of the payment is determined.

"Those people who believe the act unfair are losing sight of the real purpose of the wheat plan," says Mr. Vanderzanden. "The purpose of the act is not to maintain the status quo, but to bring about a tax upon wheat and its products but to decrease production to the point where the average price of wheat will be raised to parity. If the plan is largely taken advantage of parity place will be obtained. Benefit payments will cease and, consequently, the wheat tax will be eliminated." Farmers would then receive parity price for all their crop rather than on just their domestic allotments.
