

S. P. Puts on Big Engines to Tillamook

TIMBER—Southern Pacific Co. ran their heavy freight engines in Tillamook for the first time May 2. These engines have twice as many cars as the smaller engines used to in the past and already the business justifies their use. Engine No. 2742 had as engineer S. D. Willis and conductor George Newton. They took in the first train and the smaller engines have left the Tillamook branch. This is the first on the main line out of Portland up to about three years ago, having been displaced then by the heavier mountain type of latest design. Southern Pacific is anticipating an increase in business in this vicinity far exceeding anything in the past.

Why a Community Newspaper?

Contest Sponsored by Adrain VanKovering of Zeeland, Mich. By W. G. Mills, Hanover, Mich. (First Prize)

Theodore Roosevelt was once asked, during a friendly discussion of relative values, to name three things which he would consider most essential to his welfare should he be marooned on an uninhabited island. His answer was most significant when he said:

"First, I would most desire my family. Second, my hometown newspaper. Third, my gun."

The fact that his hometown newspaper came second in importance to his family speaks volumes for that institution, and it is not altogether strange that a person with Roosevelt's perception of values should make this choice.

The community newspaper is essentially a serial history and biography, combined, of the people and events in the territory which it serves. Through its succeeding volumes the community's progress—or retrogression—is unconsciously portrayed. It makes its subscriber's problems its own problem; a sympathetic understanding exists between publisher and subscriber which is entirely absent in urban publications. This spirit of fraternalism extends to closer relationships between the advertiser in the home-town paper and those whom the advertiser serves. His appeal is not so much one of "better bargains" and "cut prices" as it is of friendship, cemented by years of pleasant and constructive community association. His advertisements are a message from one friend to another.

It is the function of the community newspaper to direct and to further the cultural, educational and spiritual life of its community, in addition to the dissemination of news. It holds as a sacred obligation the furtherance of all projects designed for public benefit, and it opposes with equal determination that which is detrimental. It is the clearing-house for opinions expressed by expert and reader alike.

The community newspaper occupies a traditional place in the existence of its home town parallel in importance to the school and the church. It is an integral part of the realization of pioneering effort to constructive living, the mouth-piece of an enterprising and progressive element of national life. The spirit of neighborliness is engendered by the familiarity with which it treats its family of readers; its flexible editorial policies permit of the same respectful treatment of the news of twin calves born to Bill Jones' cow as is given to news of world-wide importance. And the same fine editorial discrimination compels the absence of news in its columns which directs unfavorable attention to a member of its circle.

By close adherence to a policy which is dictated by a philosophy peculiar to rural society, the community newspaper has come to be regarded as an indispensable part of the rural civic plan. Its subscribers enjoy a sense of home-town editor. It is the tie which binds the common interest of John Brown, who operates the corner store, with that of Jim White, who maintains a fine herd of Jerseys on his farm three miles south of town. By its influence the community spirit of interdependence is promoted, intimate news is made available to those far removed from childhood associations, and through its sympathetic knowledge of community affairs it has become a vital necessity to all community programs of progress.

Your community newspaper needs you—you need your community newspaper!

Bard Cites Life, Loves and Deeds of "Mrs. Murphy"

The fact that Mrs. Murphy's husband is a traveling man in no way affects her popularity among the Main street business men, or so the business men, particularly among the south side of the street, maintain.

Just now Mrs. Murphy spends most of her time at home taking care of her five or six children, but a little later, after the children have attained a little more maturity, Mrs. Murphy will again resume her visits with her friends. Just now, however, the matter of maintaining the family, keeps her rather busy.

Like lots of others, Mrs. Murphy is not particularly worried about the future, or even alarmed over the fact that her offspring will be adopted out of her home. The future, in this respect, has a way of taking care of itself by supplying more family and so alleviating the worry which might otherwise be created by the loss.

In many ways, Mrs. Murphy is quite famous, though it is not at all likely that her fame has penetrated beyond the boundaries of Main street, but on Main street—on well, what's the use? Mrs. Murphy is the best rat catcher ever imported, and worth her weight in gold, even under the new government gold valuation.

Up to date Mrs. Murphy has been a resident of Hillsboro for the last five years and came here from Vancouver, B.C., where she was born. Beyond that, not much is known of her ancestry except that her mother belonged to the life there.

She was brought to Hillsboro by Guy Powers and has fulfilled all expectations as a rat-killing cat. She says, "The cat makes her home in the back room of the Powers grocery and there rears her numerous families, between times keeping the rat population of Main street cut to a minimum."

Thousands Visit "Renovized" House

More than 20,000 people visited the "Renovized" house being displayed in Portland during the first four days it was open this week. J. J. Seacore, manager of the Hillsboro Branch of The First National bank of Portland, announced today that the First National bank is sponsoring the "Renovize Portland" campaign.

Crowds during the first few days were so great, Mr. Seacore said, that two policemen were necessary to keep them from blocking sidewalks, while four hostesses inside the house were barely able to keep up with the barrage of questions asked them about details of the demonstration. All printed material describing the "Renovizing" done on the little 1880 demonstration house was exhausted the first day, he continued, and several new orders for supplies have been placed. Demand was particularly great.

Mr. Seacore reported for entry blanks in the "Home Renovizing Competition" in which The First National bank is giving $100 in cash prizes for the best home modernization projects completed in Portland before October 1. He said a great deal of interest was also apparent in the bank's plans to auction off the house late in May, selling it to the highest bidder and dividing proceeds from the sale between the Portland art museum and the Sunshine Division, a charitable organization of the city police department.

"Hillsboro people, who are in Portland this month, should by all means visit this demonstration house at the southwest Sixth and Morrison—the old post office site," declared Seacore. "The investment which architects and builders have made in this formerly unattractive worn-out dwelling is a revelation, and the furnishings an inspiration to anyone interested in interior decorating. I think Hillsboro residents who see this house will glean from the experience something they can put to use in modernizing their own homes. Admission is free, of course, and hostesses are present at all times to describe any details of the renovizing. Visiting hours are from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m. on week days and from 2 p. m. to 9 p. m. on Sundays."

H. T. BOTTS

Candidate for Circuit Judge of Washington and Tillamook Counties

At the Primary, May 18, 1934

Born in Missouri; graduate law department University of Missouri; thirty-two years active law practice in Oregon; resident of Oregon since 1901; served as deputy district attorney, mayor, and city attorney of Hillsboro for many years; a twenty-three years member of school board.

To the Voters of Washington County:

In the Voters' Pamphlet appears an endorsement for H. T. Botts as a candidate for Circuit Judge, with this appeal:

"We, from Tillamook county appeal to our neighbors of Washington county for support for Mr. Botts. Washington county has held this office since 1915, and we feel that our county may properly ask that it now be held by one of its citizens, when the candidate we offer is as highly qualified as Mr. Botts."

This is signed by the following citizens from all parts of Tillamook county:

| Chas. I. Clough | W. B. Alderman | M. J. Jenck |

- We, the undersigned, also from Tillamook county, wish to join in this endorsement and appeal. Mr. Botts has lived among us since 1901, has established a high reputation as a lawyer and a man. His qualifications for the office are outstanding and are conceded by all, including the opposing candidates. No argument can be raised against him, except that he is from Tillamook county. In a spirit of fairness to Tillamook county, this now is an argument in his favor.
- We are sure he will fill the office properly; that his services will be satisfactory; that he will have no favorites; but will give fair and courteous treatment to all.
- We assure you of his strong support in Tillamook county and of the great appreciation which will be felt here for the support you may give him in the primary election.
