OLD GLORY MARCHES TO NEW MILESTONE; PROUD SYMBOL OF NATION FOR 157 YEARS

Waving triumphantly through the years, the Star Spangled Banner has been an inspiration to Americans since its birthday on June 14, 1777. Below: A group of war veterans featuring Old Glory in a patriotic parade. Above: U. S. Marines are shown raising the Stars and Stripes at a tropical outpost in the West Indies and displaying the National Flag and their regimental colors while on parade in China.

Old Glory goes marching on. Milestone after milestone has been passed and June 14 will mark the 157th anniversary of the beloved symbol of the nation. Many patriotic Americans will be proud to display their flag on this date in observance of Flag Day.

George Washington said: "We take the stars from heaven, the red from our mother country, separating it by white stripes, thus showing that we have separated from her, and the white stripes shall go down to posterity representing liberty." Long before Old Glory became the symbol of our great nation, there were scores of flags representing the hopes and aspirations of our forefathers. Colonial flags show anchors, beavers, rattlesnakes, pine trees and various other insignia. Some of them bore the words, "Hope," "Liberty," or "An Appeal to Heaven." A favorite motto beneath the rattlesnake design was "Don't tread on me."
