Celebrate Here

Hillsboro's annual Fourth of July celebration and homecoming will be the mecca of thousands of people from near and far next week. The people of this community are happy to sponsor this event and look forward to providing an opportunity for everyone, particularly their friends and neighbors in Washington county, to get together and have a good time in a good, old fashioned Fourth.

The patriotic organizations ask and urge the participation of all in the patriotic exercises in the southeast corner of the park. These programs are held to bring out the true significance of the day and to stress the lessons of good American citizenship. Good speakers are always provided, pageants capably presented under an excellent director and the lessons of patriotism splendidly presented.

This celebration has been a much anticipated event by the younger folk of the community for many years. These boys and girls would be at the grounds from early in the morning until late at night, if they could have their way.

Let's all join in and make this affair something very much worthwhile from all angles—entertainment and good fellowship. It should be a great big family party with the children having a good time and old friends meeting to renew acquaintances.

The boys' and girls' 4-H club summer session at Corvallis each year is a fine thing for the youth of our state. It furnishes them with a real inspiration for their work and Washington county boys and girls take a big part in the event each year.

Pioneer Courage

Our connections with our pioneer ancestry are fading away from us all too fast. The latest is the death of Mrs. Iowa Taylor of Scholls, who came to Oregon as a child in the train of 1852 and who had lived in this county for more than 80 years. Their stories of the building of this country should be continued and their memory cherished. Mrs. Taylor had seen the complete transition of this virgin wilderness. She saw it when roads and bridges did not exist, when all living meant struggle and hardship. How different from the life of today in many cases. Theirs was a courage and loyalty that would stand us all in good stead in these times.

Handpicked?

Charge was made by one of the key-noters at the "true progressive" nomination party that General Martin and Joe Dunne, nominees of the two major parties, were hand-picked candidates. What would you call Peter Zimmerman, when a few, not satisfied with the vote of thousands of Oregon citizens, gather themselves into session and pick their man? General Martin has truly demonstrated his service to this state as a representative in congress, where he was unquestionably one of the outstanding members of the congress. He has courage and we would stake a lot on him that if anyone can be controlled by the utilities or anyone else it would be the general.

Joe Dunne deserves the appreciation of local people because of his fight for the milk control bill, which has given the dairymen a more fair return.

Help the Paper

Merchants that advertise in the Argus are a big factor in carrying this publication to the many hundreds of subscribers each week. Without their support a newspaper for this community would not be possible. Their store news is interesting and vital. It pays to read the ads. The publishers are trying to give the readers and advertisers the best paper possible. They would appreciate the help of the readers, who are asked to tell the advertiser, "I saw it in the Argus."

Death Friday morning of little Beth Anne Johnson, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alf O. Johnson, prominent Hillsboro people, came as a shock to the community. Their many friends extend sympathy. No loss is so great or so heart rending as that when a small child, the center of all home and family life, is taken.

President Roosevelt has invoked the law under the terms of the labor bill passed in the last hours of congress and has appointed an arbitration board to help in the settlement of the waterfront strike on the Pacific coast. Let us hope that this action will speed results. The public is the biggest loser in this game.

State of Oregon is watching the gasoline shortage due to the waterfront strike. State, in case of serious shortage, faces loss of taxes. Well, it has probably already lost a lot in the way of income tax returns for next year.

Roseburg meeting of the state editorial association last week was one of the best ever held by Oregon newspapermen. The program was filled with excellent numbers, including complete discussions of code problems. Entertainment features furnished plenty of fun for the guests.

What Other Editors Say

History, Not News

Can it be possible that some of our big city editors, in their zeal to belittle a democratic deal, are permitting history to masquerade as news in the columns of their newspapers? Most of us who have kept track of Ogdon Mills, Clarence Darrow and Bainbridge Colby, to mention but a few, fail to recognize as news their stolid and sustained opposition to any plan that would put the interests of the masses of the American people ahead of those of what have come to be known as the vested interests. Instead of being news, it is history, solidly rooted to a foundation of special privilege.

Today the United States is making steady progress toward the new order, and it is but natural that the old reactionary groups should endeavor, by word and deed, to throw every obstacle in the way. But if the Literary Digest poll discloses anything, it is that the greater majority of the American people are still firmly behind President Roosevelt and his New Deal. It also discloses that the masses have successfully withstood the costly propaganda of the old predatory groups, which, for too many years, have considered the people only in the light of their value for exploitation purposes.

If the New Deal prevails, 90 per cent of the people of the United States will have reason to expect better times. But if it fails, the old predatory groups will have full reason to regret that greed blinded them to the greater catastrophe that may befall them.—Hood River News.

N-o R-eason for A-larm

There are many ways of looking at the present economic and political situation in this good old U. S. A. If we look at things from a democratic standpoint they are all right and are going to be better. From the standpoint of the party out of power they are nearly all wrong and not likely to be much better until—

Of course, things are not as bad as they seem, and probably are better than they seem. In spite of party in power, or strikes, or drought, or various opinions, conditions will improve if we all and individually do our part to improve them. "After all," said B. C. Forbes in a recent financial editorial, "the responsibility for bringing about better times rests just as heavily upon business leaders as upon President Roosevelt. It is the duty of every employer, of every responsible citizen, to make the best of unalterable facts and conditions, and to exert every effort to keep the country going in the right direction economically and employment-wise."—Gresham Outlook.

The NRA may have its faults, plenty of them, but it does not deserve the panning it is getting for political purposes.—Vernonia Eagle.
