Arbitration Favored

Longshoremen vote for arbitration by an overwhelming vote, 795 to 33 in Portland. This means that the country should get back to normalcy once again, mills and factories are opening again after forced shut-downs due to the strike, and business and agriculture may breathe easier. Action of the longshoremen is the logical move on their part.

Features Increased

Never before has there been so much interest in the happenings at our national capitol in Washington. In keeping with Argus policy, services of the paper have been extended to include a weekly news letter from the seat of the federal government and it is hoped that the Argus readers will find it interesting and worthwhile. Addition has also been made of several new features from the Newspaper Enterprise Association, including fashions, cartoons, comic strip and news pictures. This is in keeping with the policy of the publishers to give the people of this community the best possible newspaper serv-

It does one good to see public officials with intestinal fortitude. Wishy-washy attitudes could lead us into a lot of grief. Mayor Joe Carson in Portland is showing the right attitude with the backing of the council when he says no longer will Communist organizations use the city council chamber as a place for speeches.

Let's Make This God's Country

Who can resist the appeal that there was in the Who can resist the appeal that there was in the president's speech a short time ago when he spoke over the radio. "Let us make this God's country." The president meant no narrow measure. He made reference to the boys in France, who made the remark concerning their home land. God's country. The soldiers meant that which every true American the soldiers meant that which every true American the pursuit of happiness according visions. Liberty, the pursuit of happiness according to one's own desires, ambition and aspiration to succeed to the highest office in the land with possibility of realization. The right to worship according to the dictates of one's own conscience. The and of their birth and its glorious traditions and

But the president probably visioned something more. Let's make this "God's Country" implies that there is something yet to be done; that something has either been left undone or has been perverted and must be reformed. The president knows that opportunity has become grossly unequal and that power for human happiness based upon attainment material wealth as a national heritage, has ssed and that it must be regained, not by the efforts of any party or any group, but by the labor and effort of all of the citizens of the land. Let's make this God's Country.—Sheridan Sun,

Whatever may be thought of the NRA, it is generally admitted that it has contributed to the elimination of sweat shops and child labor, has given labor a better break for wages, and improved working hours. These are distinct gains in American life.

It is true that NRA executives praise the agency to the skies and hold the bureau and its work necessary to hasten recovery. On the other hand, there are critics who say that the NRA represents the downfall of representative democracy and that if continued it will either bring on Fascism or communism because the NRA has had a tendency to abrogate certain constitutional provisions.
