Prices Set for Melons, Tomatoes

A minimum price of $11.25 per ton, delivered for canning tomatoes contracted for after August 2 was agreed on in a meeting between the control committee of the Oregon-Washington Melon and Tomato Marketing Agreement committee and delegates representing 80 per cent of the tomato canning industry in the two states, at a meeting in Portland August 2.

The price of $11.25 per ton is for field run tomatoes excluding culls. Contracts previously entered into between growers and canners will not be disturbed, according to Morton Tompkins, chairman of the control committee. A tax of 35 cents per ton to cover costs of supervision of the agreement was agreed by the board. This tax will be deducted by the canners from growers' checks and sent to the adjustment acts by the two states, the Oregon-Washington Melon and Tomato Marketing Agreement Control committee is empowered to set minimum prices on all melons and tomatoes sold in Oregon and Washington.

Those representing the growers on the joint control committee were porary juggling of some other funds. The state highway fund showed a balance of $2,792,976.23 with $1,537,985.32 in bond principal and interest to meet on October 1. Monies to the credit of the Veterans' fund July 31 totaled $904,000 with $1,069,616.25 in bond principal and interest due on October 1.

Budget director Hansen, who is now engaged in preparation of the biennial budget for the information of the next legislature, has let it be known that he proposes to continue to bear down on tax expenditures. For one thing he expects to recommend continuation for another two years of the pay cuts put into effect by the 1933 session. This he points out, will be absolutely essential to the balancing of the budget and the ultimate elimination of the general fund deficit which has been materially reduced in size during the past two years. State officials and employees, whose pay envelopes are affected by the legislative economy act, can be expected to bring considerable pressure to bear against any attempt to extend the salary reductions beyond next March, when the present law automatically expires, but with the recommendations of the budget director to stiffen their backbones the lawmakers can be expected to resist the entreaties of the payroll army and re-enact the enforced economy measure.

According to William Einzig, state purchasing agent, the penitentiary flax plant is at last on a paying basis. Not only is the flax fund out of the red but it has a cash balance of $275,000. More than $100,000 of 1934 flax has already been delivered to the plant by Willamette valley farmers, which, after processing by the prison plant, is expected to sell at a good profit to the state.
