(Continued from page 1) dairy animals. He started with but one and has increased this so that now owns five head. George Barkley of Forest Grove is another clubber who, five years ago, showed a little heifer at the county fair for the first time as a senior calf. This year he will be back again with the same animal, only this time she will be a five-year-old cow, with two of her daughters and a granddaughter.

Demonstrations and judging teams will visit for honors during the three-day session in addition to the livestock exhibits. Last year demonstration teams from this county in both livestock and crops won first places at the state fair and one of them represented the state at the competition with other states at the Pacific International Livestock show in Portland. Increased competition and interest in this demonstration work is anticipated this year and former winners are planning to duplicate their successes of last year if possible.

One additional attraction to dairy calf club members this year is the "Calf Manna" trophy presented by the Carnation Milk company. This cup will be presented to the club having the best herd-ownership record at the end of the fair. Keen competition is expected in this event. Clubs will all be scored on the several factors which are taken into consideration and the cup presented Saturday afternoon at the fair grounds. The stock judging demonstrations and the presentation of trophies will all take place at the show grounds.

Schedule Listed
Schedule for the livestock and crops section will be about as follows: Thursday—Livestock, crops, poultry and rabbit judging contests. Friday—Judging of stock, crops, handicraft and forestry projects; judging of crops and miscellaneous demonstrations, showmanship, hogs, sheep and goats. Saturday—Showmanship of cattle, livestock demonstrations judging of club fitting, and award of the Carnation cup and the Sperry Flour trophy. Judges will be S. B. Hall, county agent, and LeRoy Mills, assistant county agent of Clackamas county.

Girls' Exhibits Planned
Sewing, cooking and canning exhibits and demonstrations will take up the greater part of the main 4-H club building this year, according to Mrs. Zola Morgan, assistant leader of Washington county home economics club. Approximately 300 exhibits are expected, representing the activities of girls' 4-H clubs during the past year.

Exhibits to be displayed will consist of projects in six divisions of sewing, four divisions of cooking, three divisions of canning, and room improvement. Clothing clubs III, IV and V will have their displays on the east side of building while sewing projects will be placed near west side of the display room. Cooking displays will be placed on tables in the center aisle and canning projects in the northeast corner of the building. Sewing and canning projects will be in place next Tuesday evening and will be shown on west side of the display room. Cooking displays will be placed on tables in the center aisle and canning projects in the northeast corner of the building.

Demonstrations by girls in sewing, cooking, canning and home-making clubs and the home economics judging contest will be held on the stage at the south end of the 4-H club building. These contests have attracted considerable attention in past years and will be conducted during the three days of the event.

Highlights of the girls' program will be the stye dress revue and the dollar dinner contest. In the first event, girls in sewing III will model clothing made by themselves. Winners will be determined in the following divisions: Wash dress or suit for school; wool, silk or rayon dress or suit for school; best dress, wool, cotton, silk or rayon; and informal party dress. First place winners in each of these divisions will be given a free trip to the state fair to exhibit their costumes.

Competition in the dollar dinner contest is open to any girl in a cooking club. Under the rules of the contest, each girl is required to provide, prepare and serve dinner for four persons at a cost not to exceed $1. The work must be accomplished within a period of three hours.

Special prizes are being offered again this year to canning club members by the Ball Manufacturing company and the Kerr Glass Manufacturing company. Judges for the events in the girls' divisions will be Miss Helen Coughlin of Corvallis, assistant state 4-H club leader, and Mrs. Blanche Bride of Hillsboro.

Premiums totaling $100 are offered contestants in the Future Farmers' competitions. These will be given for exhibits in shop work, crops, livestock and combination projects, livestock exhibits and stock judging contests.

Members of county health clubs will be examined by county physicians and dentists during the fair and awards will be given to the boy and girl making the greatest improvement during the past year. This year will be given under the direction of Miss Margaret Dixon, county health nurse.

Status of Production Control Plans Cited

(Continued from page 1) and sometimes other grain in the field at this time. Frequently the question is asked if burning the stubble gets rid of all the Hessian fly. The answer to this question is no. Probably the burning does get rid of a large number, but it does not get all of them. These larvae hatch in the soil in which they remain as they now are until we get that damp weather. When our fall rains begin and the needed moisture is supplied, these larvae hatch into adult flies which begin to lay eggs. When their egg-laying is completed the Hessian fly dies regardless of weather conditions, say those entomologists who have studied the life cycle of this insect.

In what might be termed normal seasons, that is when we have our usual normal fall rains, Hessian fly larvae will have developed into adults and their egg-laying will usually be completed by the 18th of October. This means that ordinarily by delaying seeding of fall wheat until about that time one may be reasonably certain that Hessian fly damage may be prevented. One of the best ways of fighting Hessian fly is to plow under all wheat stubble as soon as the ground is ready for plowing and work it down to a good seed bed. Wherever possible all volunteer wheat should be destroyed by disking or plowing, and it is advisable to not plant wheat back onto the same ground that had wheat on it the past season. In a normal fall season by delaying planting until after October 15, we should not have any appreciable damage from Hessian fly in the fall grain crop.

The reverse was true the past season was that the Hessian fly infestation occurred in late February and early March rather than in the fall and was due to the extremely mild winter which resulted in the Hessian fly hatching out in the spring about two or three months earlier than usual. Ordinarily when this spring brood comes out the grain is so far along that they do not do any damage.

State Health Law Enforced

Enforcement of the regulation recently adopted by the Oregon State Board of Health regarding the sterilization of dishes and utensils used in public eating places will be made in this county, according to Dr. J. B. Dinsmore, county health officer. Violations of these regulations constitute a legal offense, and if continued willfully may result in the revocation of license and punishment by fine or imprisonment.

Anyone aware of such violation is urged to report directly to the State Board of Health, Oregon building, Portland, or to the county health officer, Hillsboro.

The following is a copy of the regulation as adopted June 30, 1934. "All cups, dishes, spoons, knives, forks and other eating and kitchen utensils in public eating places, must after using be thoroughly washed with soap and water having a temperature above 130 degrees Fahrenheit, and rinsed in clean water. All mugs, stems, or glasses used for serving beverages must be washed and sterilized in boiling water or rinsed in clean water containing at least 23 parts per million of available chlorine."

Special emphasis is placed on this because of the prevalence of trench mouth (Vincent's Angina), and because it is hoped that such precautions may to some extent limit the spread of all diseases that may be transmitted from mouth to mouth. A partial list of diseases that may be spread in this manner includes infantile parotiditis, fever, mumps, measles and whooping cough.

This is the first year that Minton has served as manager, although he has been on the fair board for years. George L. Woodworth of Hillsboro served in the first year the fair was held here after many years without a county fair. That was in 1925. F. L. Brown of Laurel was manager in 1926, 1927 and 1928, while Ed. L. Moore of Hillsboro served in that capacity in 1929, 1930 and 1931.

First aid booth is planned at the fair by the Washington County Public Health association. Health literature will also be displayed.

Dead Doctor Heals Stomach Ailments
A weird story is told of a well-known specialist reaching from the grave to cure stomach suffering. Years ago this doctor created a prescription for stomach ulcers, acid stomach, gas pains, heartburn, indigestion, bloating, belching, and other symptoms when caused by excess acid. Then the good doctor died. But his name lived on after death as one user told another of his wonderful prescription. In the past six years, 54,169 grateful persons have written letters telling of their recoveries. This prescription is now known to thousands as the Uda Treatment. All stomach sufferers may have a free sample of Uda Tablets in solid under a money-back guarantee of satisfaction. Hillsboro Pharmacy.
