the county is planned at the county ty fair this week-end, according to W. J. Mills, manager, Products from the furniture, quilt and sewing projects and from the county cannery will be on display to show the type of work being done.

One unit of the furniture factory for repairing used articles and making new opened Monday at Beaverton. On the same day a unit of the quilting project was started at the county Agent)

Probably the most desirable cover crop for general use in the orchards that the orchards of Washington county is the old standby of common vetch and winter barley. Of late years there has been considerable interest in some other things, notably turnips and crimson clover. Turnips are good and some people have had and still have an exceptionally heavy green the county for generally more satisfactory except in those instances where a grower has had no trouble in getting a stand of turnips.

Any cover crop should be seeded early. Where crimson clover or vetch and barley are used these should be seeded before the middle of September, If the seeding is delayed too late the early spring growth is usually not large enough the quilting project was started at Aloha, Five women are employed on the latter project and they turned out seven quilts in the first two days of work.

Work will start Monday repairing the Aloha-Huber school, according to Mills. He stated that the wood-yard project was pearing comple.
