Request that city, county and state police heads devote more time and effort to enforcement of traffic rules affecting motorists' and pedestrians, safety, and less to overtime parking, or apprehension of minor criminals is being made this week by sponsors of the state-wide "Let's Quit Killing" campaign.

Pointing out that Oregon is experiencing no crime wave of any magnitude to necessitate a concentrated drive against criminals, and that the state does have an emergency existing in the alarming in-crease in auto accidents, deaths and injuries, sponsors of the safety cam-paign are urging heads of police units to delegate more men to safety work. One of the causes of state's accident increase, they be-lieve, is that penalties for violation of traffic laws have in general been made heavier, with no corresponding increase in the certainty of

Delegation of more officers to enforcement of traffic rules affecting safety, such as speeding, school zones, through streets, turns from wrong lanes or without signalling, and other safe-driving requisites, ould result in a greater certainty of arrest for violators, and a corresponding decrease in lawbreaking, it was asserted.

Turning right or left from wrong traffic lanes is the specific viola-tion scheduled for attention during the ensuing two-week period of the safety drive. Records show an astonishing number of accidents re-sulting from this cause, although they generally are less serious than accidents caused by other violations where speed of cars involved may
