Cooter Seems in Lead for Speakership of the House.

SALEM—While he, himself, makes no claims to having it in the bag every indication at this time speaker of the house of representa tives of the Oregon legislature. Cooter, who is making an aggres sive campaign in the interest of the speakership, contacting most of the house members personally, is known to have secured a sizeable block of pledges already. Adding impetus to his campaign this week was a statement from Earl Hill Lane county legislator, and himself a contender for the gavel-wielding represent the last payment on the job in event the republicans had dominated the organization, and on the 1934 crop, the two payments on the 1934 crop, the 1934 nouncing his support of Cooter and totaling approximately 26 cents on employed, and have spread to other urging his pledges to follow his the contract signer's allotment.

Any attempt to provide a mansion for Oregon's governor at this time would be most inopportune in the opinion of officials who are familiar with the state's financial condition and the needs of its many institutions. With many of the institutions overcrowded the state will be hard put to provide new buildings for which there is an imperative need at this time without indulging in the extravagance of a governor's mansion. So far as can be learned here there is little or no sentiment favorable to such a move among members of
