THE SENTINEL

Throughout the town a corps of fire hydrants stands guard protecting the lives and property of the community. These sentinels are part of the service provided by your water company. They furnish the fire department the water with which to fight fire.

They are the visible evidence of protection and give you a feeling of security which would be lacking if the community were without water service.

The Most Fooled Man

THE MOST FOOLED MAN is the man who fools himself, especially when he goes to a merchant and asks for credit and is accepted, then fools himself by thinking he does not have to pay.

But he is the man that PAYS AND PAYS AND PAYS, for he is sacrificing not only his credit, but his good name and social standing. He has lost the confidence of the Merchants and Professional men of his community and is making himself a social outcast. So in order to maintain that priceless asset, which is your good CREDIT, it is well to pay or part pay or satisfactorily arrange to pay when your accounts are due.

REMEMBER when you lose your credit you lose something you may never regain.
