INTERESTING FICTION ON LIBRARY SHELF

"Something Human," a first novel by Shirley Darbyshire, is one of the new fiction books recently placed on the rental shelf at the library. This book is unusual, and well written, the story of a blind beggar who gains wealth and retains his sight, then by another trick of fate has his life trend changed once more. "Lost Horizons," by James Hilton, is a pleasing story of adventure and fantasy exquisitely written. Some lighter romances are "Little Girl Lost," by Temple Bailey; "Understudy," by Bertie Ruth; and the adventures, "Pitcairn's Island," by Nordhoff.

Pretty Wedding on Thanksgiving

At an impressive ceremony solemnized in the Lutheran church at Verboort Thanksgiving morning, Miss Frances Van Dyke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Van Dyke of Forest Grove, became the bride of George Van Handel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Van Handel of Little Chute, Wis. The Rev. Father Jonas, pastor, officiated.

The bride wore a gown of eggshell chiffon veiled with long sleeves, cow neck, and slight train. Her veil was of tulle with cap effect and was held in place by a wreath of blossoms. She carried a white prayer book with satin streamers tied with lilies of the valley. Miss Julia Van Dyke, her sister's only attendant, wore peach colored flat crepe with muffs and turban and a corsage of Tailsman roses.

Walter Van Dyke, brother of the bride acted as best man and groomsmen were Charles Krieger and Gerald LaHale.

The church was beautifully decorated with greens and flowers of fall colors. Streamers draped from baskets of flowers formed an aisle to the huge arch through which the bridal party passed to stand before the altar where the vows were made.

During the ceremony, Raymond and Evelyn Van Dyke sang, accompanied by Irene Van Dyke, the organist. Miss Irene also played the wedding march.

A dinner was served to about sixty friends and relatives at the home of the bride's parents and in the evening the young couple gave a dance at the Buckeye pavilion in Cornelius.

After the holidays Mr. and Mrs. Van Handel will motor to Florida to spend the remainder of the winter and then continue on to Wisconsin, where Mr. Van Handel will resume his work with the Meyer Construction Co. of Oshkosh, Wis. Mrs. Van Handel has been an employee of the J. C. Penney Co. of Forest Grove for the past nine years.

After a short trip to Washington the young couple will be at home in Forest Grove until their departure for the east.
