As Golden Gate Bridge Rises

Like a lonely sentinel, the Marin tower, which will support one section of the Golden Gate Bridge, rises across the bay from San Francisco. In the foreground is shown the key-shaped fender and trestle extending from Fort Winfield Scott. The circle of concrete offshore reaches to the bottom of the bay and forms a fender within which the south pier of the bridge will be built.

About fifty attended. Dan Brooks has enlisted in the marines and is leaving Tuesday for Bremerton.

Birthday Celebrated Mr. and Mrs. Joe Brooks entertained with a birthday dinner Sunday for their daughter Norma Jean. About 20 were present.

Mr. and Mrs. John Boeckl and daughters Elizabeth and Ruth of Brooks Hill attended the concert given Sunday night at the First Reformed Church in Portland. Madeline Boeckl, who is taking nurses' training at the Emanuel hospital in Portland, took part in the concert.

County P.T.A. Holds Session at Reedville

About seventy-five parents and teachers attended regular P. T. A. Council meeting at Reedville Saturday, presided over by Mrs. Allen Knight of Forest Grove, president.

A "panel study" club on parent education was the feature of the afternoon meeting. Mrs. Harriet P. Cramer, Executive secretary of the Oregon Mental Hygiene society, introduced the subject by saying that her hours spent in the juvenile court would be unbearable if she did not also see the many parent education study groups studying parenthood as a real, scientific, vocation instead of just an accidental sideline.

Mrs. Cramer said she was glad to see many such groups organized in Washington county under the auspices of Parent-Teacher associations. A model study club was then presented by Mrs. A. Johanssen of Glenwood, chairman of parent education in Washington county, with the help of Mrs. Cramer. The subject chosen was "The Most Important Age." Mrs. T. R. Chamberlain of Forest Grove discussed briefly the "Pre-School Age." Mrs. C. R. Martin of Garden Home, the "School Age." Mrs. L. P. Rockwood of Forest Grove, "Adolescent Age." Mrs. Allen Knight, "Young Men and Women." Mrs. J. M. Person of Hillsboro, the "Homemaking Age." Mrs. E. J. Maple of Forest Grove, "Middle Age," and Mrs. Johanssen, "Old Age, Its Needs and Possibilities."

Mrs. Cramer spoke of the difficulties of a mother with several of these ages in her home, all trying to live happily together. Good books on all these problems were quoted by the speakers.

An unusual feature of the morning session was a discussion led by Mrs. H. F. Bergis, parliamentarian of the Portland P. T. A. Council on good methods of conducting P. T. A. and other club meetings.

Mrs. Carl Sande of Forest Grove gave favorable reports on the membership drive. Mrs. Essex Marsh of Beaverton conferred with summer round-up chairman, Mrs. C. R. Martin of Garden Home reported plans for a "Hobby" survey of the county. Mrs. Lee J. Barnum of Aloha discussed the use of posters with the publicity chairman, Mrs. Paul Patterson, legislative chairman, reported work being done on the teachers' minimum wage law. She said also that teachers for study classes for adults might be obtained under SERA by writing at once to Superintendent O. B. Kraus, Mrs. Knight announced for the program committee that a pageant is being prepared for the founders' day observance at the February meeting, when the council will be entertained by Hillsboro.

Mrs. A. M. Janssen, hospitality chairman; Mrs. Becker, president; Miss Olivia Berger, principal, all of Reedville and a local committee, all contributed to the welcome and comfort of delegates. A musical program was given by Richard Greenwald, Donald Becker, Jack Petrovitch, Richard Hagz, Florence Trachsel, and Mrs. George Imlay.

Follow the BIBLE GAME

share in $1200.00 CASH PRIZES! offered by the SUNDAY OREGONIAN

The Rules Are Simple

1. The Bible Game is open to everybody in the Pacific Northwest, except employees of The Oregonian and their relatives. Entrants will not be required to solicit subscriptions in order to qualify for any of the prizes, which total $1200.
2. The Bible Game consists of a series of 65 pictures. They will be published serially, eight at a time, beginning Sunday, December 16, and the 65th and last picture on February 10. Entrants are to choose the 65 most appropriate verse-answers for the 65 pictures and write them on the answer blanks, together with the names of the Books wherein they are found, and the chapter and verse number of each.
3. Pictures and verse-answers are to be submitted at one time, as a set, before midnight, Saturday, February 23. If they are mailed in, the envelope or package must bear a postmark date of not later than February 23.
4. Entrants may submit as many complete sets as they desire without being disqualified or handicapped in any way. Only one set turned in by a person (that person's best set) will be given a prize, and not more than one member of an immediate family will be eligible for any of the awards.
5. The entrant or entrants submitting the largest number of most appropriate verses and nearest and most attractive set or sets will be eligible for the first prize. The entrant or entrants submitting the next largest number of most appropriate verses and nearest and most attractive set or sets will be eligible for the remaining prizes in the order of the appropriateness of their verses and neatness and attractiveness of their sets. In the event of ties between or among entrants having an equal number of most appropriate verses, their sets a duplicate prize will be awarded each tying entrant.
6. Beneath each of the 65 pictures will be found a ruled space with lines provided for the verse-answer, the name of the Book wherein it is found, chapter and verse numbers, and submit each verse-answer for each picture on a sheet of paper 6 1/2 inches in size, on which may be drawn (not traced) and the ruled space with its printed contents. Copies of The Oregonian are on file at libraries where they may be examined without charge.
7. All verse-answers for the series of pictures must be found in a reference book entitled The Bible Treasury, an abridgment of the Scriptures. This book may be consulted free of charge at the office of The Oregonian, or an entrant may ask the authorities of any regularly constituted public library to supply a copy. The Bible Treasury will be supplied to one public library in each city and town within the territory prescribed by these rules. For your convenience, The Bible Treasury has been printed in booklet form, a copy of which may be had after next Sunday—at Bible Game Headquarters, Oregonian business office, for 25c. Postpaid to any address in the Pacific Northwest for 35c.
8. A committee of official judges will inspect the sets of pictures and verse-answers when submitted. Their decision will be final and entrants take part in the Bible Game with this understanding.
9. The Oregonian reserves the right to keep all sets of pictures and verse-answers submitted.
10. The Bible Game is non-sectarian. Hence The Oregonian will not interpret verses, publish sectarian views, or engage in correspondence on these subjects.

Instructions for Playing the Bible Game

The picture directly at the left is NOT one of the series. If it were, the most appropriate verse-answer for it would be "In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth. Gen. 1:1." That's the way the game is played. It's very simple. Now that you have the idea, you're off to a good start. Watch for the first eight pictures in next Sunday's Oregonian, December 16. Read the lists of verses beneath the answer-blanks. Then pick out the ones you think best fit the scenes and write in the spaces provided for that purpose, together with the names of the Books wherein they are found, the chapter and verse numbers, and your name and address. That's all there is to it. You don't have to get subscriptions, compose essays, write letters or make points, and you needn't even be a subscriber. Do NOT submit any of your verse-answers until ALL of the pictures have been published.
