The Restoration of Peter

Text: John 21:11-19 There is a prophetic keenness in the questions that Jesus asked him three times and in the response that Jesus gave to Peter's reply "Simon, son of Jonas, lovest thou me more than these?" Peter was no longer boastful; he was not sure that he excited anyone else in his love of the Master; and this was his simple profession, "Yea, Lord, Thou knowest that I love Thee."

THEN it was that Jesus gave him a simple task, not one of glory, not that of sitting near a throne, not that of some sublimely magnificent service rendered in the glory of great reward, but a very simple thing—very necessary thing—"Feed my lambs."

AGAIN the question, again Peter's avowal, and again the simple admonition of Jesus, "Tend my sheep." And then the third time the question and the deeper intensity of Peter's avowal, "Lord, Thou knowest all things; Thou knowest that I love Thee." But the same simple task of service, "Feed my sheep."

THEN came the words, manifestly written some years after, prophetic in their reference to the death and martyrdom that Peter was to endure for his Master. The whole story of the lesson must be read in relation to Peter's entire life. Its full import and teaching for us are derived only when we relate it to the whole life of Peter and to our lives.

HERE was a man of most impetuous character, with an intense ambition to excel and to find a foremost place, whose fisherman's life was enriched with dreams of his place in a Messianic kingdom; and yet in the great climax of his life he finds his greatest mission in a simple task.

IS it not so concerning all of us? It is the things that we desire that, if we but knew it, would make us great. It is the things that too often we disregard that would lead us much nearer, if we only knew it, both to God and to man.

COLLEGE MAN PROVES GOD This college is certainly a place of miracles, writes the man. "There is hardly a student prayer meeting in which some one does not testify to the actual experience of being absolutely penniless and of having the need met through sudden notification of a job or of money coming from somewhere. "Witness my own case. One night as I listened to some of the testimonies it seemed to me that God was taking care of everyone but me. So I asked him for some definite thing on which I could build my faith and the prayer was certainly answered. I had hardly stepped inside the house when I was told someone had called up several times. It turned out to be a job for Friday. As soon as it was through talking to the woman our landlady asked if I could wash her windows. And so I was completely loaded with work on the very day and to the extent that I had to skip some of my studying."

When shaving WAS a task In the days of the gas light, the straight razor, the pitcher and the bowl, shaving really was a task. Then, father juggled his shaving mug and other paraphernalia on one crowded washstand. No wonder beards and sideburns were fashionable. Shaving, today, is only one of the things that has been simplified by the convenience of running water in the house.

Rice and Cranberries Are money crops that grow on wet land. Washington county is little interested in these two crops, but it is interested in the growing of almost every other kind of crop we grow. It is the fact that all of these crops demand well drained soil if they produce as they should. There is absolutely nothing in which a farmer can invest his money, that will return to him the profit that a small investment in Drain Tile and a little labor will bring. We will assist with your layout—No cost.
