VEGETABLES IN THE WINTER DIET

Winter vegetables are what we have to plan with now and since choice, in most cases, is limited to a few standbys as carrots, turnips, cabbage, onions, and a few greens, all of these vegetables have the same or better food value than those of higher price. The question is how to find ways to make these old standbys seem new and interesting.

It is important to serve an abundance of vegetables during the winter months as they, along with milk, fruit, and eggs, make up our list of protective foods. This means that these particular foods are our best sources of the minerals and the vitamins, and are just as important during the winter months as during the summer when gardens are producing.

There are many ways to serve winter vegetables. Panned cabbage or five-minute creamed cabbage are delicious, as are creamed greens or greens panned in milk. Mixed vegetables au gratin, or a cream of vegetable soup are a nourishing main dishes. Here are a few winter vegetable recipes:

Panned Cabbage
3 quarts shredded or chopped cabbage
4 to 5 tablespoons butter
Salt
Pepper
Put the butter in a frying pan.

add the cabbage, cover to keep in the steam. Cook slowly and stir occasionally. When the cabbage has lost some of its crispness but still is green, sprinkle with pepper, more salt if needed, and serve at once.

Carrots in Parsley Butter
8 or 10 medium-sized carrots
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup butter
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley

Wash and scrape the carrots and cut them in slices, or dice them. Cook in a small quantity of boiling salted water for 10 to 15 minutes, or until tender, drain, add the butter, lemon juice, and parsley, and serve at once.

AT WORK

With dinner bucket in his hand, he hurries by with air so grand; Slim ration—lost within his meal—To him, at noon, a feast it seems: He eats, and dreams.

His bread becomes the choicest cake, The bacon turns to juicy steak; He sees his children, warmly clad, Forget the rage that they had had—And oh! how often "I've got a job—"

And when an honest day is done, He hastens home—could almost run— His heart beats high, and every throw his mind returns "I've got a job—"
