Poultry Group Meets Tuesday

Brooding to be Discussed at Beaverton Meeting

Brooding will be discussed by H. E. Cosby, extension poultryman. during the monthly poultry meeting at Beaverton high school at 8 p. m. Tuesday, according to L. E. Francis, assistant county agent,

The brooding season is just com-mencing and a discussion on the problems relating to the feeding and management of chicks should be of considerable interest to the poultrymen at this time, states Francis. There are a number of poultrymen installing new brooding equipment or starting into the poulbusiness for the first time and also several from mid-western communities who are not acquainted with the management practices recognised as being most successful in this locality.

For the benefit of those poultrymen, who may be interested in the newly developed bottom-heat elec-tric brooder, one of these brooders for their inspection will be set up. The building will be open at 7:30 p. m. so that the people interested in this new brooder may examine it before the meeting.

El Paso, Texas, February 15—During the past seven years I have had a chance to talk with many people, particularly business men, in the southwest. From their opinions, plus southwest. From their opinions, plus my own statistical reports, it appears that business in the southwest is spotty. In West Texas, Utah, New Mexico and Arizona things are definitely on the mend, but in East Texas and Oklahoma the situation today is not so good.

"Hot Oil" Decision Upsetting Conditions in Oklahoma and East Texas improved earlier than in most other areas. Eighteen months ago the oil troubles were clearing up and producers were beginning to ago the oil troubles were clearing up and producers were beginning to make money. Drilling operations were resumed on a major scale. Most oil men felt that government control of production would be sustained in the nation's courts. Hence, the supreme court's decision in the "Hot Oil" case was unexpected and has been very apsetting in East Texas and Oklahoma. Offsetting the decision to some extent pected and has been very apsetting in East Texas and Oklahoma. Offsetting the decision to some extent is the promise of increased consumption, but there is a general feeling here that ultimately the oils will suffer like the utilities.

Farmers in Oklahoma and Texas had a hard year in 1934. Crops were hit by the drought and most growers, unlike those east of the Mississippi. were unable to share fully in the sharp rise in corn, wheat, and cotton prices. As a result, 1934 farm income in both Texas and Oklahoma dropped well below the 1933 figure. According to government reports, the farmers are out to make up for their 1934 losses. They sowed more acreage last autumn than a year earlier, but the condition of the fall crop is not good. On the other hand, benefit payments to southwestern farmers has helped to soothe the drought losses. Texas is the largest sharer in AAA disbursements with Oklahome in third place.
