Royal Neighbors

New books on the rental shelf at the library include "This Little World," by Francis Bert Young, distinguished English novelist, a fine description of a modern English village and enough romance to lend color to the story; "House Divided," by Pearl Buck, casting light on what is happening to the younger generation of China; and "One of Us," by Ernest Poole.

"House Divided" is the third of the thilogy; "Good Earth" depicted the Chinese farmer, "Sons," the war lord, and the new book, a modern educated youth. Another copy of "Anthony Adverse" has been obtained for the rental shelf so those who have been unable to get it will not have to wait so long. Put your name on the reserve list.
