

Business Women Will Observe Week Here

National Business Women's Week, March 17 to 23, will be fittingly celebrated by Business and Professional Women's clubs over the nation. The local club will observe the week with two major events. Members will attend service on Sunday morning, March 17, at the Christian church, where Rev. R. L. Putnam will deliver the sermon and an appropriate musical program will be given. Mrs. John Y. Richardson, junior past president of the D. A. R. of Oregon, will be the speaker at the banquet March 21 and a good musical program will be given.

The event for Tuesday afternoon, which was tentatively planned, has been postponed until a later date. Committee in charge of National Week includes Mrs. C. E. Wells, Miss Arona Jones, Mrs. James White, Mrs. Miss Emily Young, Mrs. E. K. Payram and Mrs. Howard Wells.

Next regular club meeting will be March 15, beginning at 7:45, and the business meeting will be followed by a party.

Governor Martin and Mayor J. H. Garrett, have issued proclamations for National Business Women's Week as follows:

"The Business and Professional Women's clubs through their untiring efforts since their organization have brought about a greater recognition of woman's place in the business world. We know that for many years women in business have been frowned upon not only by their male associates but also by the members of their own sex who could not reconcile within themselves the thought that a woman is fitted to take her place with men in business and professional callings. However, in some fields, due to the inherent characteristics of their sex, we find that women have taken the lead and have contributed in a large manner to the success of the economic and political changes during the past few decades. This splendid group has proved to be an inspiration to the members of their own sex and also to the men with whom they come in daily contact. They have won our admiration and esteem. In fact, they have raised the standards of business and professional life to a degree which merits our commendation and commendation on their part.

In observing National Business Women's Week from March 17 to 23, we are giving rightful homage to the women who have and are making this a better world through their influence and ability."

CHARLES H. MARTIN, Governor.

In setting aside the week of March 17 to 23 to be observed as National Business Women's Week, I believe we are recognizing one of the greatest organizations for the uplifting of character and efficiency in womanhood who are taking their rightful place in the business world.

The world owes a lot to the good influence of women in the past when they were working as individuals, but when formed into a national organization such as the National Business and Professional Women's club their efforts will be much more effective.

May the influence of the Business and Professional Women's club make for better and more ethical business standards and raise their respective business and professions in the opinion of the people.

Respectfully,
J. H. GARRETT,
Mayor of Hillsboro.

P. U. Faculty Gives Program Tuesday Night

For benefit of the new stage and proscenium of Marsh hall, the faculty of Pacific University will offer a combined program of concert and drama next Tuesday evening at 8:15.

The concert, similar to those given in previous years by members of the conservatory faculty, includes violin numbers by Helen Evers, piano concertos by Amy Spibrick, Beupre and Harry VanDyke, a voice group by Dean Edith Collins Evans and a group of piano solos by Harry VanDyke.

The one-act play, "Trifles," is by Susan Glaspell, the outstanding British playwright, and is judged one of the best. The play, a mystery story in a rural setting, has much dramatic force.
