The Hillsboro Argus assumes no financial responsibility for errors published in its columns, but in cases where this paper is at fault will reprint that part of an advertisement in which the typographical mistake occurs.

An Independent Newspaper, whose services and policies are based on the principle of the Golden Rule.—"And as ye would that men should do to you, do ye also to them likewise."—Matthew 7:12.

Conditions Changed

There doesn't appear to be much room for argument as to the improvement of conditions when one considers the financial condition of the county governmental unit as compared with two years

At that time county warrants were not much in demand and the discount rate was mounting. Local business men finally sponsored county scrip to be issued against county warrants to provide for circulation. This undoubtedly kept the discount rate from going any higher.

Today the county has arranged for the banks to accept warrants on a three per cent basis and Judge Templeton predicts that within a short time the county will be on a cash basis.

Dr. Tamiesie

The many friends of Dr. J. P. Tamiesie in Hillsboro and Washington county mourn his sudden death in Portland. Dr. Tamiesie, during his residence in this community, was a highly respected citizen and always did more than his part in civic affairs, being in the front of all progressive activities. Even after moving to Portland some 20 years ago he maintained his interest in the civic affairs of Hillsboro and continued his large property holdings here. Dr. Tamiesie deserves a great deal of credit for the extension of the dairy industry in this county through being one of the original proponents and investors in the local milk condensery. He was always highly regarded for his kindly, sociable and friendly qualities.

Mrs. Annie M. Imbrie

Mrs. Annie M. Imbrie, one of the last remaining links with our great pioneer past, was called to her reward Thursday. Hundreds here and elsewhere mourn the loss of a dear and true friend. Mrs. Imbrie. a pioneer daughter, knew this country well in its early days and it was her fortune to see this virgin wilderness blossom into a land of homes and fertile farms. She lived her life well and honorably and served faithfully in several local organizations, holding in particular a membership in the grange for more than 50 years.

A Lucky Break

Break of the United States chamber of commerce with the Roosevelt administration is no loss to the New Deal forces. It will probably prove an aid as the reactionary policies of the chamber will not raise it in the esteem of the common people of this country. They even oppose the idea of providing security for the deserving aged.

Perhaps young "Teddy" Roosevelt wouldn't be sounding off so much and so harshly against the administration of his distant cousin if he had been allowed to hang onto the governor-generalship of the Philippine Islands.

Are we on the road to recovery or worse than ever as some political objectors say? This wouldn't indicate it. Salaries and other income of Indiana citizens increased more than $200,000,000 during the last year, according to Clarence A. Jackson, director of the state gross income-tax division.

The sentiment for our mothers in the poem by Mrs. Blassing on this page is so well expressed in a few words that it leaves little for the editorial writer to say. This is the first time this poem by Mrs. Blassing has been published and we wish to express our appreciation to her for her kind co-operation.

Observance of this day throughout our country is truly a fitting expression of our love and respect for our greatest friend-Mother. Let us show it in the most sincere way and continue it through the days and years to come.

Be Here Saturday

Remember that it will pay you in the ong run to give your local merchant and business house the first chance to serve you. Money spent at home may come back to you again but that sent away seldom returns. Hillsboro Bargain day Saturday is aimed to show everyone the importance of this community as a trading center. All will want to be here and see for them-

What Other Editors Say

The Codes Will Survive

From many sources comes the statement that the NRA is after all a sheet anchor to windward. Many lumbermen who are not getting by today, making a little money last year. In all lines that have held to the code there have been better times and better feeling. Industries that have thrown out their code and operate under the old method of eat dog are frankly stating that they do not find the going so good. It is a serious reflection on the members of any industry that they are not able to maintain a code of fair competition. That is not the fault of codes, but the industry itself that permits a system of administration to be foisted on it that is either incapable or irresponsibly selfish. Administration should be in the hands of executives chosen by the industry itself and operated for themselves and by themselves.

When the political order has passed out of the code business, industry will as naturally come back to it as it is natural for those engaged in the same kind of work to organize for mutual benefits. Fair competition and fair prices, backed by a sufficiently strong arm to compel compliance will be as naturally a part of the business of each industry as the of decent and orderly living is the code of organized society.-Sheridan Sun.

Advertising in a newspaper is read and re-read the entire family. Neither the yawning mouth the waste basket nor the pungent bonfire from the trash heap is the stark cold unappreciated lot of the country newspaper. Not until the whole family has read it, is the paper discarded.—McMinn-

Wheat Plan Outlined and a penciled note indicated that the man was irrational, according to Fred J. Sewell, coroner. The fire, which destroyed the mill and approximately $2000 worth of lumber, was discovered about noon by W. E. Colvin, his son Alva, and S. S. Tanner, all of near Meacham's Crossing. Going to investigate, they found the dying man lying across a bed in the home of Mrs. Etta Young, owner of the mill and Moundabaugh's employer. Mrs. Young was absent at the time. Moundabaugh had been employed at the mill from February 13 until April 1, when the mill shut down. Since that time he had been cutset up by the Agricultural Adjust-ment Administration.

Since that time he had been cut-ting stumpage near the sawmill.

The wheat adjustment program should not be viewed as necessarily a crop reduction plan, stated Shumway. It is a control program and there might be times when it would actually be necessary to increase acreage. He mentioned the fact that in some parts of the Middle West at the present time they are pay-ing benefit payments to farmers to get them to raise more flax, and that the entire idea of the adjustthem to raise more flax, and ment program is a controlled acreage to meet market demands.

Some questions are occasionally asked about the cost of administering the program. During the first year this cost amounted to 2.4 percent of the amount collected. Not all of this fund was used according to reports from Washington, D. C., a portion of it being carried over to be used during 1934 and 1935.
