Wedding Stationery Shows Few Changes in Last 50 Years
If great-grandmother were to return to earth as a blushing bride this spring she would have to change her wedding stationery of a half-century or more ago in only a few details to be absolutely correct.

Nothing is more conventional than formal stationery, but there still remains opportunity for individuality in many details.

Wedding folders with inside and outside envelopes were used fifty years ago; the color was white then—while the newest forms this year are ivory. And the ancient Copper Plate Script of the eighties has given way to more modern shaded styles of lettering. There are various other minute but important details in which this season's social stationery diverges from that of even a few years ago.

The newest in wedding invitations, and marriage announcements have been received at the Hillsboro Argus office. It is a pleasure to show them.

South Tualatin is Name of New Club

JOHNSON—A record crowd was on hand Thursday evening for the third meeting of the new club, recently formed in this district. The entertainment was in charge of John Liebenow and Lillia O'Connor headed the refreshment committee. Business matters were taken up, the naming of the club in particular. The name "South Tualatin Club" was finally selected. Ruby Bagnell is secretary of the club. Next meeting will be a picnic on Emil Brock's farm July 21. A pot-luck dinner will be held and friends of the club are invited.

Bill Reuter of Portland is working on the Emil Brock place. He was formerly a resident of this locality.

Jack Bowby is convalescing from injuries received in a motorcycle accident. Injuries comprised a broken collar bone and sprained thumb, besides severe bruises.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Bunnell and son Barton of North Bend and Mrs. Millie Bunnell and Clara Routh of Olympia, Wash., are house guests at the W. A. Bunnell home. Mr. Bunnell attended the Coffey clinic in Portland Tuesday. W. A. Bunnell, Bob Penman and Lafayette Meade drove to Portland June 17. Invitations for a taffy party and scavenger hunt have been given out by Yvonne Bunnell for Tuesday evening to the young people of the neighborhood.

Lella O'Connor visited her parents at Reedville Sunday.

Evelyn Lloyd is visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Vanderschuer.

North Dakotans Visit Local Folk
O. J. Buttedahl and Miss Hazel Devore of Bismarck, N. D., visited last week at the home of Miss Devore's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Devore at Jacktown. Miss Devore is employed in the state auditor's office at Bismarck. Mr. Buttedahl is editor of the North Dakota Leader, official non-partisan league newspaper. The paper is owned by former Governor Langer of North Dakota, who was the center of much political strife and court activity recently. They made the trip by automobile.

Grounds for Divorce
And now being a newspaper publisher is grounds for a divorce. George Valentine of San Diego has sued her husband, James Valentine, because "he persists in being a publisher with consequent insufficient earnings."

She alleged that her husband "refused to leave the publishing field, so he might enlarge his earning capacity, despite her numerous pleas that he do so."

He continued in that work, she charged, "because he liked to associate with friends in the same field."—California Publisher.
