Because the statutes do not pro-vide for the sale of 15-year bonds as had been contemplated by the state highway commission in re-financing its Coast highway bridge bonds, motorists of Oregon will be stuck for an extra $400,000 or more in interest charges over the 25 years which the new issue will run. R. H. Baldock, state highway engineer, had figured to save approximately $2,000,000 by exchanging the present PWA 30-year revenue bonds for 15-year general obligation bonds. The law provides only for the sale of 25 and five-year bonds, but even on the longer only for the sale of 25 and five-year bonds, but even on the longer term paper it is believed there will be a saving of approximately $1,-600,000 in interest due largely to a lower rate. The commission is advertising $3,000,000 of 25-year bonds for sale on July 25 and plans to float a short term issue of five-year bonds covering the remaining $1,200,000 necessary to finance the bridges, later.
