The World Sorrows

The whole world is shocked at the death of Will Rogers, America's great humorist, and the famous aviator, Wiley Post, who were killed in an airplane accident in Alaska last Thursday. Rogers writings and his work in pictures were wholesome and beneficial to millions. Pertinent comments of Will Rogers in his daily newspaper articles had a punch and his frequent humorous attacks on the great and near great were also to the point and so fashioned that they had little comeback. With a homely saying he could sum up a political and economic situation that would be very much to the point. Truly the world has lost a great and lovable citizen and for this it mourns. The death of hardly anyone else in the world could have been felt as keenly by people in all walks of life.

Will Rogers

Carried today, on wings of death,
There passed the soul of a man.
Few there are, who passing, leave
Such chasm for us to span.

A chasm of lonely, aching years,
Devoid of his kindly smile,
We try to grasp at reality,
Incredulous, the while.

A nation sought his council.
The world was friend to him.
The pauper and the king, alike,
Join in his requiem.

A man who loved the simple things,
Abhorring sham and greed;
His temple, nature's solitude;
The golden rule, his creed.

His soul too big for petty things,
He loved to fly in God's pure air.
He flew so near "the other side,"
'Twas better landing, "over there."

Firemen, Others Talk Celebration

Fourth of July celebration committee of Hillsboro Firemen's association, which sponsored the local celebration this year, met with members of the city council and a few others Friday night at the Blue Eagle cafe to review the 1935 celebration and discuss plans for holding future celebrations.

Financial report revealed a financial success and the proceeds will be placed in a fund to back the event in coming years. It was indicated that this fund would be built up to meet any emergencies such as bad weather and to provide for the holding of a real Washington county celebration and homecoming each year.

All expressed the belief that the firemen should be given the privilege of carrying on with the celebration as they did this year. One speaker said the success was due to the spirit the firemen put into it.

Need for park improvements was cited by several speakers.

Security Wage

Much is being said about the "security wage" under the works progress administration and it is being condemned by labor and unemployed groups. The whole plan was conceived by the Roosevelt administration to help the unemployed, yet we have the spectacle of those whom it is intended to help parading in opposition and striking against the "security wage."

W. J. Patrick, president of the National Economic Welfare Federation, even went so far as to tell the Oregon labor federation that the "unemployed are of the unanimous opinion they won't scab on the job. Some have tried it but they have been well taken care of, I believe. The object of WPA, with its 'security plan of wages, is to smash the American standards of wages, hours and other conditions of labor."

Such talk seems uncalled for and far from appreciative of wholesale efforts to improve the lot of unfortunate unemployed. The theory all along should have been useful projects based on the idea of "No Work, No Eat." When sincere efforts are made to provide security it hardly seems logical that they should be met with abuse.

The government contends that to use the prevailing wage would defeat the purpose of absorbing the unemployed and take them off the dole. That the $4,800,000 would not do the job. Maybe after all a system of dole, costing far less than the work progress plan, would be the easiest way out if security efforts are to be met with strikes and protest parades.

We have always had a sincere sympathy for those unable to secure employment and have contended that governmental provision should be made for the unfortunates of the depression. Strikes by the unemployed against the efforts to help them, and talk, such as that by Patrick, rather than helping have the tendency to alienate that sympathy felt by most everyone.

A Leader Needed

If the grass, weeds and brush continue to grow at the Hillsboro cemetery and no effort is made to clean up the condition, residents of the community will have to hang their heads in shame. It will be a reflection on the entire community if such a condition is permitted to continue.

Various local people have grown old and weary in their efforts to secure the co-operation of lot owners, relatives, friends, citizens and fraternal groups in maintaining these hallowed grounds in a way that is not a discredit. Why cannot we make one more effort in the hopes of bringing success? Will not some leader, interested in the welfare of the community and a proper care of these grounds, volunteer to head up the efforts.

A drive past there on the highway will convince anyone of the need for action.

Housing Problem Has Become a Serious One in Hillsboro

Housing problem has become a serious one in Hillsboro as in many other places throughout the country. Depression years have cut down on the normal building to such an extent that people report great difficulty in securing modern homes. Perhaps the rent situation will have to change somewhat to stimulate building, for owners say people are not willing to pay for the better houses. Meanwhile Hillsboro, in the last two weeks, has been known to have lost at least one family because of inability to locate a good place here and this family preferred to live here. Others have been known to do the same thing and the rivalry over houses is such that friendships are often endangered.

Social News of Local Folk and Their Friends

Mrs. Cora Cochran, who has been spending the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Baker, near Corvallis, arrived home Saturday. Mrs. Cochran came down to move her household furniture, and will return to Corvallis next week to take care of her father, who is ill.

General Martin, Sheriffs Connell and Pratt of Washington and Multnomah Counties, respectively, and other officials were condemned in resolutions passed at the meeting of the state federation of labor for their actions during the lumber strike.

They charged these officers with "official tyranny" by interfering with picketing. Well, if doing one's duty as an official in permitting citizens their American rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness and the preventing of beat-ups by gangs during such affairs is "official tyranny" there should be more of it.

Although not up to desires of many as to old age pensions the social security measure has been enacted by congress and signed by the president. It should afford a sense of security never before thought of in this country and will make for greater happiness and contentment.

In the untimely death of Omar Fendall at Forest Grove that city and the state have lost a splendid and outstanding citizen. He was one of the county's most prominent and active citizens. Mr. Fendall was an active church man and a leader in civic and community affairs. He was a man whom the community could ill afford to lose in the prime of life.

Many friends join in extending sympathy to the Bechen family in the death of the husband and father, John Bechen, a substantial and worthwhile citizen. He made a real success of the farming business in his more than 30 years of residence in this county. Quiet and reserved, Mr. Bechen had many true friends.

A recent Rotary club speaker cited the intense family love and interest in Japan, saying that even if a sixth cousin were out of work other members of the family would give him shelter and help. That is far different from the congressman, who receives $10,000 a year, and admits that his parents and four brothers are on the relief rolls.

The political "claptraps" are mong the country's greatest liabilities. One can hear or read their sayings most every day and Oregon has its share.
