Dollar-Dinner

The writer was a fortunate individual Saturday noon in that he was a guest at a dollar-dinner demonstration at the county fair. The club girls preparing the dinner were Misses Jean Ann Connell, Barbara Enschede, Lois Bierly and Juanita Cawse. The dinner they prepared was a credit to themselves and their club leaders. This dinner for 16 was not to exceed $4, or $1 for each four persons. We have never had a better dinner at twice the money.

Too much praise and encouragement cannot be given to work of this kind that makes for better homemaking, through economy and good cooking. The girls, their leaders and all others who have anything to do with such features are to be congratulated on their fine work.

This demonstration is just more evidence of the fact that the stimulus and encouragement given boys and girls justifies the annual county fair if nothing else comes out of it.

More of this type of work would make for happier homes.

Announcement that temporary jobs will not affect relief employment should be met with favor everywhere. All possible encouragement should be given unemployed to seek work in private enterprise. Such an opening is now offered in the hop fields, and those who do not take advantage of their opportunities in harvest will rightly be stricken from relief rolls. Those who answer the call for work will be given preference on government work projects.

David Lawrence, noted political writer, certainly hits the nail on the head when he says: "What the rank and file of voters who feel themselves independent in mind want is a riddance of hypocrisy, political chicanery, waste and extravagance in the handling of public money and the return of some old-fashioned patriotism which puts country above self every inch of the way."

What Other Editors Say

The Rural Press

There are some 15,500 newspapers and periodicals published in this country. The greatest proportion of them are small-town weeklies, dailies and semi-weeklies, and magazines whose principal appeal is to the rural dweller.

The importance, the influence, and the worth of these publications can hardly be exaggerated. They are, as the San Francisco Argonaut has written, "the chief influence in the thought habits of our rural population of fifty-four million." And the character of their content, both in news and editorial departments, well repays those who peruse them.

As a result, the recent contest held by the magazine "Country Home" to pick the best country newspaper correspondent in the United States, was of much more importance and interest than contests usually are. The winner, a woman, lives in a Missouri town which has a population of twenty-seven, and is fifteen miles from the nearest railroad. For forty-four years she has been local correspondent for a rural paper in her county.

Urban editors, on reading excerpts from her correspondence, have been amazed by its quality. It does not deal with crimes and misdemeanors. Instead it tells of the crops, of the trials, tribulations and achievements of farm people who rarely make the metropolitan headlines, but who, happily, are more numerous and more vital to the nation than our gangsters, our political and business renegades, and our ex-show-girl divorcees.

Most interesting of all, this woman's correspondence, fine as it is, is not greatly different from that of other rural correspondents. Winners of lesser prizes in the contest show the same qualities—the same command of clear and vivid English. The country newspaper, little known as it is to the city dweller, is one of the finest, most permanent, and most deservedly successful influences in our American life. Last, but not least, it is the outstanding guardian of the nation in upholding our constitution and American ideals.—Industrial News Review.

Capitol News Letter

(Continued from page one) Bunyan celebration; to Pendleton to inspect the state hospital; and to Klamath Falls to address the "29-39"

concern over the question of what to serve for dessert.

But if you want the dessert to have a more important place in the menu there are simple desserts with custard foundations. Made with milk and eggs and combined with colorful fruit, custards can be transformed into a variety of appetizing combinations and filled with food value.

With a generous supply of milk in the refrigerator, homemakers have the basis for innumerable tasty desserts, as well as the most important food essential for well-balanced meals. Custards, puddings, cakes, cookies, many of the fillings for pies as well as ice cream, demand milk for a perfect product.

The homemaker seeking suitable desserts for summer days has to prepare food that will appeal to the appetites that have been wearied by the heat. Desserts should be simple and not those necessitating a long time spent over a hot stove. Then, too, choose those that can be made in the morning, chilled in the ice box and then are ready for lunch or dinner.

Here are some recipes that are delicious combined with fresh fruit:

Baked Custard with Fresh Peaches

4 cups scalded milk
 1 teaspoon vanilla
 4 eggs or 6 egg yolks
 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
 1/2 cup sugar
 1/4 teaspoon salt

4 eggs which have been blended with a fork, add sugar and salt. Stir constantly while adding slowly the hot milk, then the vanilla. Pour mixture into buttered custard cups or baking dish. Sprinkle with nutmeg. Set in a pan of hot water and bake in slow oven 30 or 40 minutes. This recipe serves eight. After custards have been cooked and thoroughly cooled, turn out into sherbet dishes and arrange slices of peaches around them. These may be served with or without whipped cream.

Fruit Tapioca Cream

2 cups milk
 2 tablespoons minute tapioca
 1 egg
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1/2 cup chopped fruit
 1 cup sugar
 2 teaspoons lemon juice.

Scald milk, add tapioca, and cook until tapioca is transparent; add slightly beaten yolk of egg, sugar and salt, and cook until thick. Add lemon juice. Beat egg white until stiff. Fold into hot mixture. Add chopped fresh fruit. Chill thoroughly.

Divorce Suits Filed

Murphy—Gladys C. vs. James F. Foot-Power: You need that today just as did the early Christians who went everywhere preaching the Gospel, the Good News, that "God had a Son and He died for your sins." The big blessing comes when you hunt out the one who never heard.

Head-Power: Use what head power you have and with it take on all the Bible you can. "My word shall not return to me void," says God. Of the Scriptures Christ said, "These are they that speak of me."

"And I if I be lifted up from the earth will draw all men unto Me." Use your head-power; show Him lifted up, crucified, punished for sin. The Cross the one place where the Holy God meets sinful man.

Heart-power: Just sounding brass and tinkling cymbal—that's all you are unless you have it. Breaks the sinner down when he senses it that you are driven by an overflow from that boundless reservoir of love, the heart of God—for God so loved them that He gave his Son to die for their sins.

Knee-power: That brings in all these and what other powers you need, to become the fruitful branch. Haven't the courage to foot it out to the neighbors to tell the good news? Use your knee-power. Haven't the knowledge? Knee-power again. Nor the heart? Then more knee-power. "Herein is my Father glorified, that you bear much fruit; so shall ye be my disciples," says our Lord—George N. Taylor, Beaverton. Pd. Adv.
