Whisnands to Move to Parr Place; Rain Helps

(By Mrs. F. L. Brown)

LAURELVIEW school opened Monday with 12 pupils and Mrs. Willard Hughes as teacher. First grade pupils are Andrew and Betty May Egendahl and Eva Mort. New pupils are Dorothy Whisnand, fourth grader, formerly of Midway, and three Inabara boys from a Japanese family, who are farming the Bennett place.

Quarry Starts

The rock crusher started Monday morning for a short run which will probably be the last until next year.

Mrs. Richard Whittle and her house guests, Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Deason, who are her parents, and Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong, all of York, Neb., spent from Friday until Sunday at Newport.

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Whitmore visited their daughter, Mrs. Lee, and family of Cherry Grove from Friday until Sunday.

Clarence Parr of Fargo, N. D., who came west to attend his father's funeral, and Miss Helen Parr of Hillsboro visited the former Parr place Saturday.

Whisnands to Move

The H. M. Whisnand family of Midway plan to move to the Parr place, which was recently purchased by the L. A. Whittle company, as soon as prune harvest is finished.

Picking Ends

Hop-picking was finished Tuesday in the Dewey Mercer yard on the S. H. Ornduff place. Pickers were scarce throughout the harvest season. The red spider did considerable damage this year for the first time, according to Mrs. Mercer's report.

A number of folks from here attended the funeral services for John Kamna Sr. in Hillsboro Sunday.

Anniversary Observed

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Brown celebrated their fourth wedding anniversary.

Sending Them to Oregon!

"We must see the Northwest, too," say many visitors at the San Diego exposition after talking with Claudia Benson of the Oregon State Motor association, the northwest's only representative. Stationed at her desk in the Shell Travel Information building, Mrs. Benson has routed through Oregon hundreds of vacationists who otherwise would have gone directly home. In one day last week 5000 inquiries were received at the travel bureau. All northwest inquiries are referred to Mrs. Benson, who works overtime "selling" the northwest. Opportunity in Argus Classified

Many an article reposes in the attic that could very well be turned into cash or swapped for something else more useful through Argus classified advertising. The hundreds of Argus readers provide an interesting and varied market. The cost is small but the results are big, a statement that can be proved by hundreds who have profited from these columns.

A. M. Jansen, head of the well drilling company at Reedyville that bears his name, advertised an aero-motor windmill and new and used pumps. He said later that he had several calls after the articles had been placed in the Argus.

Argus classified page is without question the "Great Market Place of Washington County."

SCENE: Above the air-conditioned Cascade, California bound.

DUST: Sure as shooting we'll be filtered out. Yes sir, filtered out. Only pure air gets by on that train.

SOOT: Shucks! I was all set to light on some fellow's clean collar. Now he'll ride all the way sootless—and get there sootless.

POLLEN: Oh well, let's try somewhere else. I'm going after a hay fever victim who doesn't ride the train.

So, you see, we've licked these tiny flying scallawags. Our passengers like the idea. We know you'll like it. Believe us, it's mighty pleasant to breathe the cleanest kind of air—to enjoy controlled temperature, always the ideal degree, the ideal humidity—and to ride in a new restful quietness. Next time try the train and experience this travel treat. And the treat is on us. For there's no extra charge. But remember, only the train is air-conditioned—every car on our Cascade, every car but the coaches on our West Coast.
