THIS chart shows how the loss of export markets for wheat has changed the wheat acreage situation in this country. The first column shows that from 1930 to 1932 our farmers averaged 66 million acres planted to wheat, although about 9 million of these acres were producing wheat for which there was no profitable market. The second column shows that 50 million acres usually produce enough wheat for our domestic use and that 7 million acres more will produce all we can expect to export. Because of severe crop damage this year, somewhat more than 57 million acres is expected to be planted for the 1936 crop. The figures are based on average yields.

Lots of Wells, Result of Ads

When you ask E. C. Bennett of Hillsboro about his advertising in the Argus, he'll say, "Well well!" because that's his business, digging for water. But he finds that digging wells is greatly assisted by digging for the business as well.

Since his advertising began in the classified columns of The Argus, he has dug 19 wells, and because of the rush of business has been compelled to turn down five or six more. Some advertisers, seeking to sell their services, find that it pays big returns to keep their names in places where the large Argus family does its reading.

ON OREGON FARMS Alfalfa Proves Soil Builder

DALLAS—After more than 70 years of cropping, a field on the old Senator Nesmith farm east of Rickreall produced a wheat crop that would be a credit to any rich virgin soil, reports County Agent J. R. Beck. Nine years of cropping to alfalfa prepared the way for a 56 bushel yield of spring wheat for R. D. Pence this year, he says. A part of the same field which has been in a regular clover-grain rotation produced only 21 bushels to the acre this year. The field was planted late to Jenkins Club wheat and not harvested until September 11.

Local Savings & Loan Association Sets Enviably Record in Dividends

Payment of 20 consecutive semi-annual dividends during its 10 years of existence in Washington county is the enviable record set by the Washington Savings & Loan association. In addition to the institution, which is located in Hillsboro, has filled a very definite need for home financing in the financial scheme of the county.

Pioneering with a financial institution that was new to one of the oldest towns in Oregon, J. M. Person, manager of the association, started laying the foundation for the organization during 1923 and 1924. Representative and capable men from Hillsboro and Forest Grove were selected for the board of directors in order to make the scope of the business county-wide. Of the original seven men on the board, five remain as directors today.

J. M. Person

The institution was incorporated in the fall of 1924 and received its charter in June of 1925. It was a purely county organization and its board of directors has been made up of county residents. The present personnel is Dr. J. O. Robb, E. L. Johnson and Person, all of Hillsboro, and D. D. Bump and George G. Hancock, both of Forest Grove. George McGraith of Hillsboro and J. H. Shearer of Forest Grove were the other two original members of the board.

During the first six months of operation, the association had no paid-in reserve fund, but after that period it was changed to a reserve fund company. It now has the largest reserve in its history, amounting to approximately $30,000. This represents funds paid in by cash and the undivided profits that have accumulated from year to year. The association is unique in that no earnings above those paid out to regular investors have ever been distributed in cash in the form of profits.

Last fall the Tualatin Valley Federal Savings & Loan association, a federally chartered institution, was organized at Tigard with the same way that the Federal Reserve banks serve commercial banks, according to Person. These federally chartered institutions, which will supplement the former state chartered associations, are automatically members of the Federal Home Loan bank system. The law under which they are authorized provides that the United States treasury may subscribe for shares on the same earning basis as the public.

Filbert and Walnut Growers Your Attention!

We were very surprised to receive the following registered letter, which anybody can see is nothing more or less than a threat:

REGISTERED October 8, 1935
Hudson-Duncan & Co.
325 S. E. Water Street
Portland, Oregon.
Gentlemen:

This is to advise you that we will hold you strictly accountable if you solicit or receive for sale any walnuts or filberts grown by any member of any unit of North Pacific Nut Growers, Co-operative.

You or any other dealer who purchases any nuts covered by an existing marketing contract with any unit of this association is liable for an action for conversion, or under the circumstances noted therein, for the penalties provided in Section 25-815 Oregon Code of 1930.

We are writing you this letter at this time so that you will have ample warning. To avoid liability, it is suggested that you make inquiry to determine whether or not nuts that you handle are under existing contracts.

Very truly yours,
NORTH PACIFIC NUT GROWERS' COOP.
(Signed) Frank C. Riggs, Sales Manager.

The only reason we can figure out why Mr. Riggs should write such a letter is that he is afraid a good many of his filberts do not want to deliver their filberts or walnuts to him. The only reason why a member would want to take his filberts or walnuts to somebody else would be if he found out he could get more money for his crop and get his money faster than he could from Mr. Riggs. It must be that a good many members have found this out.

So far we haven't found it necessary to write any threatening letters to Mr. Riggs to keep our growers from going over and selling to him. Maybe you can guess why.

Now wouldn't Mr. Riggs be doing more for his members if he got busy and sold some nuts instead of spending his time blustering and writing threatening letters to us? He signs his name as "Sales Manager." Or does he figure on letting California do the selling?

Furthermore, does Mr. Riggs have a contract with a member when Mr. Riggs has signed an Agreement to give away 30% of the member's walnuts to the California Control Board; unless that member has given his consent? Or hasn't Mr. Riggs himself broken that contract?
