Townsend Leader Speaks at Rotary

Pointing out the advantages of the Townsend pension plan, Rev. R. L. Putnam, president of the Hillsboro club, spoke Thursday before the local Rotary club luncheon.

The proposed transactions tax, he told Rotarians, will take care of the pension benefits and leave a surplus of $5,000,000. It is not the plan, he said, to begin payments until a surplus has first been created in the government treasury from which to make payments.

Another feature of the plan he declared, was that incomes of persons making application would be deducted from the monthly allotment. Applications from approximately six million persons is expected when the plan is put in operation.

Putnam pointed out that the plan is expected to carry through congress, possibly at the session in the spring. Supporters of the plan, he said, are increasing every day.

Among the Rotary visitors attending were Andy Patterson, secretary of the Portland club, and Dr. Kline Fixit, regional director of Rotary clubs. Dr. Fixit spoke briefly on Rotary affairs.

An invitation was presented from the Portland Rotary to play golf at the Portland-Golf club November 1. Al Janssen is program chairman for the meeting Thursday.

Poultrymen Hold Meet at Beaverton

production of the birds. The egg-charming will not only serve as a warning that some epidemic is going through the flock, but it will also serve as a very good guide as to whether or not the poultryman is feeding properly.

"In addition to a discussion on the problem of keeping pullets up in production, Cosby discussed certain various matters of legislation that were brought up in the recent congress and that were of interest to poultrymen. He pointed out that it is going to be vital to the poultry industry that the poultrymen become better organized in order that they can successfully bring legislative measures that are vital to the industry. At the present time prices of eggs have increased to the point where the foreign producer is able to import eggs, pay the tariff and still afford to compete on American markets with the American poultryman. Egg importations in recent months have increased to the point where they are becoming a serious consideration."

Another point discussed by Cosby was the breeders' and hatcherymen's code. In this discussion he pointed out that while the code itself was killed by the decision of the supreme court with regard to the NRA that it has left its influence with regard to a spirit of fair trade and advertising in breeding and hatchery business.

Finally, Cosby discussed the national flock improvement plan by which all chicks will be branded and sold according to grades and will all be tested for Pullorum disease with all tests being made by recognized experts. He pointed out that this will be of great value to poultrymen in that they will be able to know exactly the type and quality of birds that they are producing and will no longer be subject to blind buying.

Following Cosby's discussion, Fred H. Cockell of Milwaukie recommended to the poultrymen that they pass a resolution expressing their appreciation to Senator Frederick Steiwer for the support that he gave the poultry industry in the recent session of congress. R. L. Rockwell and Frank Erickson were appointed as a committee of two to draft this resolution and send it to Senator Steiwer on behalf of the Washington county poultrymen.

This was the first of a series of monthly meetings which are held at the Beaverton high school on the fourth Tuesday of each month at 8 p. m. Anyone interested in poultry raising and its problems is welcome to attend. Notices of each meeting are sent. Persons desiring to receive notices should leave their name and address at the county agent's office.

"A Straight Line is the Shortest Distance"

You need a tire or a pair of shoes. Somewhere the tire or pair of shoes that will satisfy you and your pocketbook is offered for sale. . . And advertising is the straight line that shows you the shortest distance between two points.

In the advertisements in this paper, you'll find straight lines drawn direct to the products you need. Look for them . . . follow them. They save you hours of aimless wandering, hours of weary rummaging, hours of telling solicitous sales-people, "No, thank you, I am just looking."

And more than time, they'll save you money . . . Advertised products are worthy ones. They must be. To advertise an inferior product means only that more people will find its flaws. The merchandise consistently advertised in these pages has proven itself by public test. You can buy with assurance of getting the fullest value for the fairest price.
