

Benefit Program for Local Museum Success

Journal Juniors program at the Venetian theatre Friday night in conjunction with the regular picture attractions drew a capacity crowd. The program was given for the benefit of the Washington County Museum and Historical Association to help in preparing the historical display given to Washington county by Albert Tozier and Mrs. Edith Tozier Westheffer.

A snappy program of tap dancing, yodeling, singing, banjo, guitar and accordion numbers, a band of harmonica and various other instruments, and several acrobatic acts, gladdened the hearts of youngsters and adults alike. The generous applause and the reply "all of it" when the director, Mr. McDade, asked what part the audience wanted repeated, attested the popularity of the Journal Juniors.

Those putting on the program were Kathleen Madison, radio singer; Shirley Kester and Larry Hastings; dancers; Jack Havens and Tommy Miller, banjo players from the Ray Williams band; and in hand, Billie McIntyre, accordion ace; Gloria Ernst of radio and Auditorium show fame, dancer and singer; Robert Luce, trumpet player, accompanied by Dallas Jean Avery; Bob Hastings and Velma Lang in their splendidly solo act; Irene Gravelin, yodeler, and combined harmonica group with added guitar, chromatic harmonica and palatino by Gene Culver, Adolph Krebs, Arthur Ingram, Jerry McIntyre, Roy Graham, Kenneth Gorum and Dick Hickman.

Facts About Your Library

Check of the last list issued of 25 best sellers in fiction shows that nineteen of them are on the public library rental shelf. Of the non-fiction list of 20 books, ten are available at the Hillsboro library.

A questionnaire is now being circulated from the library desk to patrons to enable the library to obtain books that the patrons are interested in. Be sure to ask for one.

Book reviews for this week were written by high school English students: "The Pony Express Goes Through," by Howard R. Driggs.

This story, of hardships and trials encountered by the early western pioneers in endeavoring to establish a swift and certain method of communication with their eastern relatives, from whom they were cut off by tall mountain ranges, glaring desert sands and far reaching plains, is painted vividly against a historical background. The historical facts are so adroitly woven into the pattern of the story that it reads a lasting impression on your mind.

"The Pony Express Goes Through" is a heartily recommended to all those interested in the progress and development of our country—By Dick Abts.

"Attack on Everest" by Hugh Rutledge: This is an excellent book for lovers of adventure and exploration. The struggling men, endangered by avalanches, blizzards, scarcity of oxygen and walls of glaciers which threatened to break at the least vibration made a heroic effort to reach the roof of the world.

This book includes the plans and preparations for the trip and the care with which it had to be arranged.—By Radah Gottlieb.

"Jane Addams" by Weber Linn: This is an interesting biography written by James Linn, a nephew of Jane Addams, with her help. Even as a young girl, Miss Addams was interested in social welfare of her fellowmen. At that time she was largely responsible for women graduates receiving college degrees.

Jane Addams' father was the guiding influence of her successful life. She, herself, has influenced the lives of many.—By Violet Wick.
