and give your favorite candidate the benefit of double votes. Competition between candidates for the two grand prizes, all-expense free trips to California and Old Mexico, is growing keener every day. Vote totals are mounting and the 20 girls are working hard to keep in the running.

Double-vote days last Friday and Saturday resulted in record activity in Hillsboro. Loyal supporters of the various candidates took advantage of the opportunities for real merchandise bargains and double votes.

Candidates are asked to sort out the ballots of various denominations and to band the different kinds into bundles of 50 ballots. This will facilitate the counting of the ballots and minimize the chance for errors in tabulation.

Contestants are asked to keep a close watch on the vote totals published and to report immediately any discrepancy between the official count and their own totals.

Unless errors are reported by 6 p. m. February 23 the totals posted as of February 23 will be considered correct and will not be changed after that date. Votes cast February 29 and March 2 will be added to these totals for the final standing.

The dinner contemplated for candidates has been cancelled due to conflict with other events.

A $10 cash prize will be given the contestant, inside or outside of Hillsboro, who secures the greatest number of yearly subscriptions in Washington county only, from February 21 to March 2, inclusive. Contestants also will receive votes for cash paid on subscriptions placed to their credit.

Redwood History of County Cited in WPA Project

Proving that Redwood trees, now popularly believed to be grown exclusively for the benefit of California publicity agents and promoters, formerly flourished in central Oregon. L. M. Lowell, reporting Crook county for the American Guide, WPA writers' project, mentions the petrified sequoia forest of this district as of special interest. Once the clumsy, small-brained dinosaurs roamed among the trees but during a later geologic age the redwoods were toppled over by some ancient upheaval.

There are still some fine specimens of redwood trees to be found in Oregon. Forest Grove being one of the cities where some beautiful trees of this species grow.

Recent research there by Verne Bright, American Guide writer, revealed an interesting bit of history in connection with the redwoods of Washington county.

When gold was discovered in California in 1849, every able-bodied man struck out for the mining regions of the south, among them John R. Porter, a lover of trees. Though he fared none too well in California and brought back little of the yellow metal, he did bring back to his home community, a more enduring treasure in the form of two bushel sacks of cones from the California redwoods, whose symmetrical beauty had intrigued him.

He planted the seed in a nursery and grew some hundred seedlings which he divided among his neighbors, though he planned most of them on his farm near Verboort.

At the present time there are 91 of these stately redwood trees in Washington county, most of them about 100 feet tall, cone-shaped and symmetrical as a steeple. Three of the trees are on the college campus in Forest Grove, others are on the court house grounds in Hillsboro, while still others are located in various parts of Forest Grove.

BONNEVILLE—ONE OF UNCLE SAM'S BIG JOBS

These photographs assembled by the Travel and Information Department of the Oregon State Highway Commission give one an idea of the gigantic scale of the great power and navigation project of the Columbia. Photograph No. 1 shows where an army of workers with giant machinery is building a section of the main spillway dam between Bradford island and the Washington shore. Cofferdams keep the river out while the work goes forward. Picture No. 2 gives some conception of the heavy machinery used in moving the thousands of tons of rock and earth. Picture No. 3 shows a group of the buildings constructed on the Oregon shore near the dam to house permanent employees. Landscaping and architecture are exceedingly attractive. The site of the dam is 42 miles east of Portland on the Columbia River Highway. Thousands stop to gaze down on the herculean job every week. It is one of the great construction projects of the nation worth going a long way to see.

Stevenson is survived by his wife, three daughters, a son, and eight grandchildren; and two sisters, Mrs. George Taylor, and Mrs. Ruth Morgan of Long Beach, Cal.

Huge Sum Involved in Mortgage Suits

Frank Hartwick, Wilbur Davis and William Ellis as the result of injuries received August 20, 1935, when his foot was crushed at the Consolidated Lumber company warehouse at Glenwood.

He sets forth in his complaint that Ellis was driving a truck owned by the other defendants and, on the day mentioned, parked the truck on a side hill without setting the brakes. The truck rolled backward, struck steel eye-bear balanced on the unloading dock, and caused it to fall on the plaintiff's right foot.

Another suit is brought by Alvin H. Joy as an appeal from a decision of the state industrial accident commission made in January. Joy declares that while working for Edlsten & Weyand, contractors at Rex Hill, Washington county, June 8, 1935, he was bitten by a pet bear. As a result of the bite he was laid up for 103 days.

The claim was denied on the grounds that bear bites were not in the line of duty.

Orders in circuit court this week included Anna M. Brandt et al vs. Herman and Emelia Janicke, dismissal of United Railways vs. Harry J. Babcock and Curtis W. Miller, judgment of S. E. Nygren and O. C. Ostrander vs. R. F. Barker and Westimber Lumber company extension of time to file answers; Hamilton company vs. City of Oreno, overruling demurrer; Liquidation of Bank of Beaverton, to sell Fordson tractor and plow; Federal Land Bank of Spokane vs. Martha E. Rogg et al, confirmation of sale.

Orders filed in probate court this week include S. Sholes, Ethel Deaville, Cora Eliza Lowry, Frank Heilberg, William F. Steele, Emma L. Snow, Theodore Newstad, and J. J. Kuratli.

New cases filed this week in circuit court include the Reed Institute vs. W. B. Haines, mortgage foreclosure; Hamilton company vs. Lucy L. Curry et al, mortgage foreclosure; State Industrial Accident commission vs. Harry J. Babcock, to recover premium on insurance; State Industrial Accident commission vs. Bridge Lumber company, to collect insurance premium; Uth A. Tamiesie vs. Lulu S. Martin et al, mortgage foreclosure.

15 or 24 Local Men Eligible to Scout Leadership

Fifteen of the 24 men who enrolled in the "Elements of Scout-mastership" training course completed a week ago Monday are eligible for certificates of completion if they attend the two outdoor sessions scheduled April 25 and 26 at Camp Meriwether on the Tillamook coast.

The two outdoor sessions are combined with an all-area trip to camp by all scoutmasters of the Portland area council. Over 200 men are expected to attend. Principal purpose of the trip is to familiarize the volunteer leaders of the scout troops with the advantages offered by the camp to scouts. A. R. Watzek, chairman of the council camp committee, is sponsoring the trip and inviting all scout leaders as his guests.

Plans for a campus day at the district camp at the Inland tract to construct a cabin so Hillsboro troops can "Camp the Calendar" were discussed at the last session of the training course. The troop rating for Hillsboro during January was 70.2 per cent which was third in the area, being surpassed by the Evergreen and Tigard districts. This was the first time in over a year that Hillsboro was not in first place. Analysis of the rating showed that Hillsboro troops rated low because of very little camping during the month and the Helvetia troop was not able to meet because of a quarantine for measles.

Annual meeting of the Portland area council will be held at the Hotel Benson in Portland next Tuesday evening. A large number of Hillsboro men and their ladies are expected to attend. Troop rating streamers will be presented Troop 247 of Hillsboro, Troop 247 of Helvetia and the Sea Scout Ship Rainbow of Hillsboro for maintaining a yearly average of over 75 per cent. Dr. Bruce Baxter, president of Willamette university, will be the principal speaker.

Considerable progress has been made during the past month with the Sea Scout Ship Rainbow, which now has 17 active young men as members.
