The navy department has turned down flat a bill for development of a naval air base at Tongue point. The powers that be seem to have little regard for the defenselessness of Oregon, but will continue to add more and more to the millions spent in California and Washington. Well let's keep plugging away, Oregon, persistence should eventually-bring success.

Politicians are not getting their feet wet by entering the race early this year. Many undoubtedly feel that it is a year of potential political dynamite and are awaiting developments. Well we can't say that we blame them in the least, considering the trend of political thought with its accompanying radical tendencies.

There is much food for thought in a letter written by M. P. Cady and appearing under "Public Forum," on this page. It is so good that the Argus suggests that every taxpayer read it and profit thereby.

Congratulations are due Hillsboro union high school officials and board members on the high standing accorded the local school in a survey by a member of the state school superintendent's staff.

Congratulations Winners

The voting for the two free trips to California and Old Mexico is ended and announcement of winners is made in this issue of the Argus. Congratulations and bon voyage to the winners. It has been fun conducting such a contest, even though there have been some irritations at various times during the eight weeks of the contest. Everything possible was done to see that the contests were conducted strictly according to the rules.

That it has been beneficial to the sponsors goes without saying, particularly those who put in real effort. Reports received from various firms and individuals indicate that people from outlying sections, interested in various candidates through being a relative or friend, but who seldom come here because of living near other centers, started coming to the county seat to do all their trading. We hope that this is true and that they have learned the value of this community as a trading

This Stockholder Opposes District

To the Editor of the Argus—I have been very much interested in reading the article in last week's Argus by Ferd Langer regarding the proposed new utility district.

Like Mr. Langer, I am a stockholder in our present power company and expect to share the ofits with my other partners.

Mr. Langer admits being very impressed by Mr. Kramien's Tacoma chart. Apparently Mr. Kramien is a good salesman of ideas as well as pills.

I suggest that Mr. Kramien make up another chart and show the differences between Tacoma and the proposed new district. Show how Tacoma distributes power over an area of 25 square miles with 1600 customers per square mile and then show that the new district would have 2447 square miles with possibly 16 customers per square mile if every family connected with the line. I am wondering if the vast difference in area served and the vast difference in number of customers would not make a vast difference in cost of distribution. Think it

For your information I will state that our present power company serves 2500 square miles of territory and has an average of 41 customers per

I hazard a guess that even if Uncle Sam gave us power free at Bonneville we could not distribute it in the proposed new district at lower rates than we are now paying unless we paid part of its cost in taxes. Of course that could be done. We could have low power rates and higher taxes but I fail to see the advantage of such an arrangement.

In this new district I would be a stockholder partner with every other taxpayer in the district including some of the counties along the coast, who are having a hard time to pay their bills just now. Yes I would go into partnership with them and guarantee their share in this new district by bonds an dtaxes against my already over burdened

But this partnership would be different from the one with our present power company. When I want to end my present partnership I can sell my stock or burn it up if I can't get a buyer and I am through for all time. I can cut off my lights and go back to lamps, or candles if I don't like their rates and they can't fine me or tax me or do anything to me. But how about it if I go into partnership to me. But how about it if I go into partnership whose term expired Mon. thing to me. But how about it if I go into partner-ship in this new district. Can I sell my stock? No. Can I get my property out of the district? No, once in, always in. I can't even take my name off of the petition if I find that I have made a wrong move in signing. And if I decide to quit using their power I can go back to lamps or candles, but they will add a little to my taxes to make up for the

No, thanks, I don't think I want any more experences in a partnership with a power company. One is enough.

In closing I will suggest that every taxpayer get a copy of this law and read it and then when it comes time to vote do like you did in the January special election, vote no. No more tax levying bodies. No more taxes of any kind, we have plenty already .- M. P. CADY.

Holding Companies, Utilities Criticized

Editor of Argus - I have, for several years, noticed that one of the settled policies in the "propaganda" of the private utility corporations has been steady and constant appeal to prejudice. Those who are opposed to the views or plans of the utility companies, and especially those who are active their efforts to protect or promote publicly owned utilities and services, are persistently denounced as socialists, communists, and bolsheviks.

In view of the persistent charge of socialism, communism, bolshevism, etc., it is interesting to inquire just what is meant by socialism, and who and what is included in the epithet as used by the representatives of the private utility corporations. All are classed together indiscriminately, although, as every well informed person knows, there are

I wish, through this letter, to call the people's attention to the report of the Federal Trade com-mission to the United States senate on this question. Here I find exhibit after exhibit of the methods of this campaign of fear. Speakers selected to be used before service clubs, and chambers of commerce are not to try logic or reason, but appeal to prejudice, use the bolsnevik idea, and deal in generalities. To my way of thinking, we have two classes of enemies in this country. The communist, who wishes to overthrow our government, and the private (wealth) socialist, who wishes to dominate our country through a super-structure of inance known as holding companies. The citizen becomes a vassal under either regime. I have witnessed long enough these pirates of power holding the American flag high above our constitution, and the same time shaking the little red flag of Soviet Russia in the eyes of our citizenry.

Remember, a vote for the proposed power district as a wise vote. - RAY L. ANTRIM, Box 37, Aloha, February 26, 1936.

What Other Editors Say

The new deal has made a challenge to business, which critics will find hard to answer. "If you object to federal spending to give men jobs so they can eat you give them the jobs yourselves," says the government. Political Pot Boiling in State; Ruhl New Board Member

SALEM-The biggest surprise to date in the present political his week by Earl Hill, state representative from Lane county, that he would not be a candidate for e-election. No satisfactory explan ition has yet been forthcoming for Hill's decision. One of the few veterans of the house and out-standing as a leader in past sessions Hill was generally conceded to have a decided advantage in the race for the speakership at the next session in the event the republicans again dominate the organization 'at that time. Candidates for congressional hon-ors as well as the electorate gen-

Grape-vine advices from the Townsend ranks have it that the organization will probably place no candidate in the field against United States Senator Mc-Nary, who is understood to have received a "50-50" rating at the hands of the king makers in this organization. The same source of nformation has it that none of Oregon's present congressmen will receive the official blessing of the Townsendites, who will place the mantle of their favor upon other

Gradually for many years subjects, which have been considered 'not essential", have been dropped entirely from the course of study Possibly at the time it was the only thing to do, and yet it seems as if it was rather an expensive idea-not in dollars and cents, not in stocks or bonds, but in the development of hundreds of youthminds. Certainly it was no 'skin off anyone's nose" except the students who will have to con-tinue their high school education under this limited curriculum.

It scarcely seems fair to those who happened to have been born at just the right time and place so that they must attend Hilhi at this particular moment. It is putting some of them at a disadvantage, quite possibly for their entire life, by not offering them the elements of the particular work in which they intend to specialize If we were to add one subject at a time as they were dropped we would soon be on a higher educational plane.
