Chehalem Mountain Potato Club Leads

(Continued from page 1) of its members are listed among the certified Burbank potato growers of the state. Two important functions that this club sponsors in the community are the annual potato tour and the annual potato banquet. On the potato tour members of the club and any farmers of the community who care to participate visit several potato fields for the purpose of studying cultural methods and the various types of insect pests and diseases and their control. A member of the extension staff is always present on this tour to assist in the discussion and instruction.

The potato banquet which is a rather recent activity, is also open to the potato growers of the community. At this time the club members each exhibit their potatoes. Outstanding potato growers of the county and extension staff members are among the principal guests at these banquets.

In the course of its time the club has had for leaders, Otto Bross, Charles Haynes, W. E. Peters, Mrs. H. P. Strickler and the present leader, John Schmelzler, all of whom are active potato growers.

The oldest 4-H organization in Washington county, the Chehalem Mountain Potato club, met at the home of the local leader, John Schmelzler, Saturday. This club has been in continuous existence since it was organized in 1924, and is now starting its twelfth consecutive year of growing winning potatoes.

Following officers were elected: Elmer Atrops, president; Frederick Nystrom, vice-president; Ellen Jaquith, secretary; Ray Hornbrook, treasurer, and James Allison, reporter. Other members included George Allison Jr. and Helen Schmelzler. More members are expected to register before the first of April.

Next club meeting to be at the home of the president, Elmer Atrops, April 17.

H. T. Koerber Injured Herman T. Koerber suffered a foot injury last Saturday while snaking out logs on his farm on the highway south of Six Corners. The accident occurred when a twelve-inch log which Mr. Koerber was dragging by team, struck a foot and swung over against his leg. The result was a painful sprain and bruises. Fortunately no bones were broken.

G. F. Atrops returned last week from Bloomington, Ill., where he attended the annual convention of agents of State Farm Mutual Insurance company. He stated that sub-zero weather didn't dampen the enthusiasm of the convention delegates.

Club Started Initial steps were taken Monday evening to organize a community dramatic club among young people of Sherwood. Representatives of sponsoring groups met at the Sherk home. First meeting is set for March 16 in the Methodist church parlors. Invitations will be issued to those desiring for membership prior to that date. Purpose of the club will be to stimulate interest and participation in dramatics by young people, to provide recreational opportunities, and to prepare and have available dramatic acts for presentation on programs sponsored by other groups. Membership will be limited entirely to young people and will be by invitation only. Miss Koerber has been selected as director.

Social Group Formed The Jolly Neighbors club, a strictly social group whose one ambition is to provide wholesome recreation for the young people of the Sherwood community, is the second group formed this week. Officers are: Fred Oberst, president; Bud Voss, vice-president; Mabel Voss, secretary; Lyle Gray, treasurer. Eda Voss was named chairman of the entertainment committee. Business sessions are to be held in conjunction with the first social meeting of each month, date and place to be selected by the entertainment committee.

Benefit Success The P. T. A. dance, sponsored for the benefit of the school hot lunch fund, Friday evening netted $15.
