

Clerk's Job Draws Many to Politics

Four File; Opposition in Other Places Develops

Portland (Continued from page 1) Oregon school of business and later of the law school. He taught at the university for two years as a graduate assistant while attending law school.

Since coming to Washington county, in addition to his practice of law, he has been active in civic affairs. He has served as commander of the Hillsboro post of the American Legion for two terms and as commander of the county Legion jamboree. He is now serving his second term as vice-president of the Hillsboro Chamber of Commerce. He has been active in Boy Scouts, Hi-Y, and other youth activities and is now serving as state chairman of the American Legion Junior Baseball program.

Patterson states: "My record of past service is the best criterion of what the public may expect of me. I am willing that I should be judged on my success as deputy district attorney and as attorney for the various municipalities I now serve."

He points out that of the defendants tried for criminal offenses in the circuit court during the present administration only 51 per cent have been convicted, while during the previous term, when he was deputy and assisting in all cases and trying many of them alone, 94 per cent of the defendants were convicted.

"I will leave to the members of the jury, witnesses, or the defendants themselves to decide whether I ever persecuted instead of prosecuted anybody," he said.

"If nominated and elected," Patterson declares, "I will endeavor to serve you as I did as district attorney as I have served you in my other positions, with courtesy, efficiency, and economy. I intend to conduct the office alone so long as it can be done with due regard to the protection of the public's interest. I will impartially administer all laws and sincerely endeavor to effect greater savings through more successful prosecution of criminal violators and of delinquent tax collectors."

William H. Dierdorff of near Hillsboro, prominent World War veteran and legionnaire, is giving serious consideration to entering the race for the republican nomination for county clerk. Dierdorff is a native son and was a student at Oregon State college after the war.

B. B. Reeves, who was the democratic nominee four years ago as assessor, entered the lists Saturday for the same office. He has lived at Cedar Mill for many years, being a member of a pioneer family.

J. M. Stretcher of Scholls was Saturday added to the list of those who would succeed the veteran County Clerk Edwin C. Lucas who is stepping out of the political picture. He seeks the republican nomination.

FREE LECTURE

Hillsboro Chamber of Commerce
SATURDAY, MARCH 21 - 2 P. M.

Dr. E. A. Schmoker, formerly chief veterinarian for Carnation Milk Farms, will discuss nutrition, latest developments in calf feeding, dairy animal diseases such as sterility and digestive disorders, and the present Bang's disease eradication project.

Open discussion will follow lecture.

ination and his slogan is "Economy and efficiency with courtesy." County Commissioner Lewis filed Thursday for the republican nomination to succeed himself. His slogan as listed in the filing book is "No interests to serve but Washington county's present incumbents."

More competition developed in the race for the republican nomination for commissioner with the filing late Saturday of Grant Dodge, farmer in the Farmington district for 16 years. A native of Oregon, he has lived in the county 25 years. Dodge is a member of the Farmers' Union and Dairy Co-op.

Commissioner Johnson, who filed Thursday, issued the following statement in connection with his filing:

"In seeking the republican nomination for county commissioner and re-election to the office which I have held for more than three years, I feel that it is incumbent upon me to justify my action by presenting to the citizens of this county a record of service which will recommend my candidacy. The candidate, who has not held office can rely on promises, but the man who fills the office has his record of public service and upon that record he must stand or fall."

"A policy of economical and efficient management of county affairs has been the keynote of my administration, and that this policy has been effectively put into practice can be seen by the achievements accomplished in the county road department. In 1931, the county had $532,000 for road purposes. For 1936 we will have $160,000 for the same purpose. To continue the maintenance and betterment of county roads it has been necessary to entirely revise and modernize our maintenance methods. As an illustration of the savings effected I cite some comparative costs. In 1931 there was produced at the Jackson rock quarry 10,049 cubic yards of crushed rock at a total cost of $18,316 or $1.82 per cubic yard. In 1934 we produced 20,330 cubic yards of rock at a cost of $11,579 or 56.9 cents per cubic yard. I cite this as an illustration of what can be done through effecting a sound management of local governmental affairs."

He elected as the republican nominee it is my intention to carry out certain already formulated policies of administration as hereinafter set forth: (1) A reduction of expenditures in the various county departments to be lowest possible point, consistent with efficient service to the people; (2) A progressive, sensible road program. It is obvious that with a curtailed budget we can hope for no extensive road building program. Under such circumstances my policy would be to maintain the roads we now have and to confine new construction projects to bringing an adequate road to those people who are now cut off by impassable roads; (3) It will be my policy to expend every effort to bring to Washington county a greater allotment of state highway funds on both primary state highways and secondary state highways, and to work for an extension of the secondary state highway system in Washington county. Earnest effort towards carrying out sound, economical administration will characterize my term of office."

Bert C. Hagen of Tigard, who has filed for county commissioner on the democratic ticket, probably will be the only democrat seeking nomination as the county clerk throughout the county are said to be generally favorable to him and probably will register no opposition.

In his petition which is now being circulated throughout Washington county, Hagen states that he will advocate and encourage economy and efficiency in the office of county commissioner consistent with progressive advancement of our county, fight for fair and equal distribution of county road funds for both construction and maintenance, and will urge increase of pension allowances.

Hagen has been active the past several years in both social and fraternal functions in the eastern part of Washington county. He is a member of the American Legion and at the present time is clerk of the Tigard grade school board and scoutmaster of the Tigard Boy Scout troop. For a considerable period he was one of the active members of Washington county relief committee. Hagen is precinct committeeman in the Tigard precinct and has been very active in the democratic organization for the past several years. He is the sole owner of the Tigard Realty company.

The following have filed on the republican ticket for precinct committeemen: Paul L. Capps and Charles J. Herb in precinct 29, Forest Grove, and Donald T. Templeton in precinct 48, Hillsboro.

Filings to date for precinct committeemen on the democratic ticket include: L. S. Campbell, Hillsboro; W. E. McClosky, Beaverton; Kate Robertson, route 5, Portland; David J. Cole, Sherwood; route 1, Gordon H. Fiske, Sherwood; Philip W. Lillison, Tigard; route 1; G. M. Leslie, route 1, Tigard; E. M. Price, Aloha; Joseph VanDyke, Gaston; Cecil L. Reed recently was employed as an engineer in construction of Boulder dam in Colorado. With Mrs. Reed, he has established residence here.

Frank McQueen, sanitary engineer and designer of the sewage disposal plant to be installed here, also has taken up residence in preparation for construction to start. He will look after Hillsboro interests in construction. McQueen was one of the designers of the Golden Gate park-disposal plant at San Francisco. This plant is considered one of the most successful in this part of the United States.

Tuesday noon the city council held a special meeting at which an amendment to the sewer rate ordinance was passed at the request of the federal government. The amendment changes the payment plan, bringing assessments due on November 1 and May 1 instead of January 1.
This plan was asked for PWA to allow plenty of time for collections before principal and interest payments must be made to the government on January 1 and July 1.

Turkey Breeders Session March 25

Turkey raisers in the Washington County chamber of commerce rooms March 25, at 8 p. m., according to L. E. Francis, assistant county agent. Dr. W. T. Johnson, poultry pathologist of the Oregon State college, will discuss turkey diseases.
Oregon's turkey industry has reached the point where its successful continuation is going to depend to a large degree upon proper disease control, states Francis. With the turkey breeding and range season close at hand, this discussion of the prevention and control of disease is very timely and should be of considerable benefit to turkey raisers.
Dr. Johnson is an internationally recognized authority on poultry diseases. The turkey raisers can well afford to take this opportunity to get advice and instruction from him.
Anyone interested in this meeting is welcome to attend.
